Luke 8:40-56

1. This passage of Scripture opens with a man pleading with Jesus for his daughter. How do our prayers change when we are impacted personally? How has your faith changed when you or your family experienced personal tragedy?
2. In the previous verses, we saw Jesus heal a man who did not ask for it. In this passage, Jesus healed two people who were seeking his healing, including a woman who needed it but was afraid to ask. What do these miracles reveal about God's love?
3. What do you notice about the posture of Jairus when he approached Jesus and asked for his daughter to be healed? How did the woman approach Jesus in 8:47? Why is a surrendered heart necessary for us to experience Jesus's healing and deliverance?

4. Jesus was on his way to care for a dying girl, but he still had time to stop and care for a woman who desperately needed his healing. What do you learn about Jesus's love in this passage? What needs to change in your life to give you more margin to care for people in a way similar to the way Jesus does?

5. How do you think Jairus must have felt while he waited for Jesus to heal this woman? How have you felt when you had to wait for God's answer to your prayers? What have you learned in the waiting? What can you learn from Jairus's experience?

6. On Sunday, Pastor Craig pointed out Jesus can heal you from your pain and your shame. Why are both important? How is the cross sufficient to accomplish all of your healing?

7. When Jesus arrived at the bedside of this young girl, she was already dead, the crowd laughed at him, but he encouraged the parents to not fear, only believe. How can you speak faith into fear? How can you fight to believe when everything around you screams against that belief?
