

Focus/Editorial - May 1976

Bryn Jones

Throughout the world there is a crisis of Leadership. Men who know where they are going and how to get there, with the ability to lead others, are few.

This is true politically, economically, in the world of business, commerce, education, science; whatever sphere you look at, the same search is on for men of Leadership ability. Nowhere is the crisis of leadership more noticeable than in the church at this time. In times of shaking and uncertainty, of confusion and many voices clamouring to be heard, how urgent it is for the emergence of men whose spiritual stature and ability can command the attention and respect of God's people and for these men be seen to be related strongly with each other to provide the unified, strong, spiritual, meek leadership God's people so desperately require.

In this issue of 'Restoration' we look at the various factors essential to true spiritual leadership, and pray that the very sharing of these will itself quicken and stir a desire in the hearts of many towards this end. Demand for the Special Report parts one and two has been excellent; more copies are still available together with the supplement on Finance, which are all free for distribution to your friends and churches.

Help with the postage is requested. With the next issue of 'Restoration' we begin our special Home and Family supplement. This is a twelve page magazine with eight pages devoted to parents and four pages to children. It will include articles on such subjects as communication, discipline, children as persons, grandparents and family activities. There will be activity pages, creative play, a colouring and puzzle page, plus details of our new and special 'whole family club', which enables you to be in something together as a family and develop interests together.