Partnership

Dear Lois,

At Sheltered91 we value collaboration and mutuality. Collaboration involves working together towards a common goal, while mutuality emphasizes reciprocal benefits and shared decision-making among all participants. In essence, mutuality ensures that collaboration is not just about achieving a task, but also about fostering a sense of shared ownership and equitable power dynamics. July has been a month full of meaningful collaboration between Sheltered91 and many others who have used their gifts, talents and influence to help meet the needs of survivors. Read below to learn about the many ways the community has gotten involved this month and find a few opportunities for you to join us as well. Thank you! We are so grateful for YOU! ~Julie

You're Invited! Prayer on the Patio

Join us TOMORROW August 1st at 9 am for Prayer on the Patio. We are committed to pray every Friday at 9:14 (like Psalm 91:4) for survivors, for the mission, and for God's glory. You can park in the Faith Church Munster (8411 Columbia Ave) parking lot and we'll show you where to go. Hope to see you tomorrow!

Culvers and Ozinga

Thank you everyone who participated in the Concretes for a Cause fundraiser this month. We were blessed by your photos, conversations and posts on Facebook. Thank you to the John Ryan Terpstra Family and Culver's Restaurant. Thank you to the Ozinga Family and Ozinga Concrete. Thank you to YOU for purchasing and eating Concrete Mixers this month. Together we are making a difference in the lives of survivors of trafficking in our communities.

Naomi's House

Only God could write the story of my relationship with Naomi's House. Never did I imagine I'd go to college at all, much less to Moody Bible Institute or that I would have the amazing privilege of interning and working at Naomi's House, a ministry of the Moody Church. Simone Halpin, Amanda Bagnall and Blythe Struck have been our mentors since the start of Sheltered91 and we are blessed to call them friends. So it was fitting that the team God created at S91 would get to meet with the staff at Naomi's House on World Day Against Trafficking in Persons to learn, collaborate and discuss ways to end human trafficking. God is soooo good!
