GOD'S PLAN OF SALVATION

GOD loves YOU "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." -John 3:16

You are a sinner. "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." -Romans 3:23

The Holy Spirit convicts YOU of sin. "And when He is come, He will reprove the world of sin.....because they believe not on me." -John 16:8-9

Your response is to repent of sin. "For I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance." -Matthew 9:13

Trust in Christ as Savior. "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation. For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." Romans 10:9, 10, 13

Grow in Christ by following through with baptism and uniting with a church. You will find new Christian friends and grow in your new life in Christ.

From Donnie's Desk;

What an amazing September we have experienced here at HSBC! As I write this article, we are preparing for the final night of our Fall Revival services and they have been simply incredible! There has been no doubt that God has spoken through Dr. Seagle and the worship and the music.

Each service has been filled with a deep and powerful sense of the presence of our Heavenly Father!

My prayer for us is that we continue to pray and prepare our hearts and engage our minds in worship! I pray the spirit of renewal and revival continues to grow and spread in our congregation. In short...I am praying that true revival breaks out right here in HSBC!

I really want us to remember that revival is not a one-time event filled with emotional responses. It is so much more than just our inward feelings and our personal rejuvenation. Revival always manifests itself in motion! Faith always has feet!

So, this October we have several opportunities to put feet to our faith within our community and beyond!

October 5 we will be showing the love of God in a tangible way by feeding then FHS Football team their pre-game meal. I think that food is our love language! We do it well and it does show the love of Christ to a great group of young men and coaches!

October 6 our Men's Breakfast will feature not only great for and fellowship but devotional challenges and conversation and planning for the Johnny Hunt Men's Conference coming up in January.

October 20 we will host a booth at the downtown Pumpkin Fest!

Thousands of people descend on our beautiful town each year for this festival and this year we will have a booth set where we can give away information about HSBC, provide games and prizes for kids, and engage people in conversations about our faith! We will have sign-up sheets out this week in order for you to sign up for a time slot to man the booth. October 21 will be a great day of worship and celebration in music as we host one of the final concerts for Blue Ridge. That evening we will join together with hundreds of folks from all over the place as we celebrate the impact Blue Ridge has had on the gospel music world for 35 years and as we celebrate the Savior that they have faithfully sung about for these many years!

October 24 we will have the joy of packing boxes for Operation Christmas

Child that will be shipped all over the world with the hope of the Gospel included in each box!

And finally...October 31 we will join together downtown to put on our third annual Fall Festival! It will be held in the vacant lot right next to Fox Mercantile and that field will be filled with games and food and families having a great time. This event gives us the chance to get out into the community and touch the lives of many folks that might never come to Holly Springs. So, be ready to sign up and help out as we share the hope of Christ on the 31st. I'm so thankful for what God is doing in our midst.

Keep praying.

Keep inviting.

Keep responding.

Keep your eyes on Jesus!

Blessings,

Donnie

Ignite Students and Families,

On Wednesday Nights, October 3rd-17th, we will be studying the series Sorry-Not Sorry, a series about Forgiveness and Loving Others.

Have you ever been wronged? Had your feelings hurt? Held a grudge? We all have! And when things like that happen, we're left wondering how to move on - especially when we don't get an apology. In this series, we'll take a look at the one thing Jesus offers us that can help us let go and move forward: forgiveness.

October 3: The more you hold on to a grudge, the more it holds on to you.

October 10: Forgiven people forgive.

October 17: Healing takes time.

October 24: OCC Packing Party

October 31: Fall Festival Downtown (next to Fox Mercantile)

See you at 6:00 PM on Wednesday Nights!

Leaving A “Legacy” Feels Overwhelming By Tim Walker

There are some people who are intentional about leading. They love leadership. They listen to podcasts, read books, and go to conferences, all to become a better leader.

They love words like “legacy” and “heritage.” Words like that seem overwhelming to me. I get that they are important, but I’m not sure how I feel about the pressure of leaving a “great legacy.”

You see, I’m not perfect. I’m quirky. I’m grumpy. And I walk through this life doing some things well, and other things not.

So I’m not sure how confident I am about leading anyone. I don’t really know where I’m going. I’m trying to figure out a lot of things—and most of the time I’m second-guessing every decision.

Also, I’m at a point in parenting when “follow the leader” is not a game my boys still want to play.

I have three sons. Two are teenagers, and one is a young adult in his early twenties. I know my boys love me, but these young men are ready to forge their own paths. They don’t want to follow in my footsteps right now. They want to take their own steps.

They are in the “I don’t want to be like dad” phase. I get it. I think every person goes through at time of distancing and separation from their parents as they transition into being an adult. I know I did.

But as I got older, I realized how much my dad knew. I gained perspective on why he made some of the decisions he did. I appreciated who he was.

When people said, “You’re a lot like your dad,” it was no longer an uncomfortable mantel someone was trying to place on me. It started to fit. And it felt good. Because I realized who I was, and if part of me reflected my father, that was a good thing.

Maybe my boys will arrive at that point. But maybe not. I see things in them that are so unique from who I am, and I love how different they are from me.

And while I want to leave a positive imprint on their lives, for me, “legacy” isn’t about them reflecting me.

It’s about pointing them to the one who made them and allowing them to become who God made them to be me.

Legacy isn’t about highlighting what I’ve done. It’s about elevating what God is doing in their lives. And that feels like a lot less pressure.

My legacy is that my children know they have an imperfect dad. A dad who overreacts to some things. A dad who not only wants to protect them (sometimes too much), but also wants to raise them to be responsible. A dad who love superheroes, but is certainly not built like one. A dad who loves them imperfectly but shows them a God who loves them perfectly.

I don’t want my boys to follow me. I want them to follow God.

I’ll feel like I’ve done well if I didn’t cause them to stumble too much in their journey. I know I will make mistakes, and they will need to choose their own path, but my biggest hope for the future is that they will have a better understanding of who God is by how much I have loved them every single day.
