As a parent, you understand the concept of unconditional love. Even when your kids make disappointing decisions, are unbelievably annoying, or bring embarrassing attention to your personal flaws, you continue to accept them and teach them in love. God looks at his children the same way. God knows that we mess up every day, that we sin repeatedly, and that we continually have to go back and ask for forgiveness. And God promises that through Jesus we can have all our sins erased and live forever in heaven. We just have to believe in Jesus and accept his forgiveness. Give your kids an extra hug tonight, and remember that God loves and forgives you, too!
