

New Library Resources

Adults: We meet those who follow Islam every day at work, at the store, in your neighborhood. What if they asked you a question about your faith in Jesus, wondering what you believe. Would you know how to respond? There are two new books by Nabeel Qureshi that might help answer your questions.

In Seeking Allah, Finding Jesus, Nabeel tells of his decision to leave Islam and follow Jesus Christ. In No God But One: A Former Muslim Investigates the Evidence for Islam & Christianity, he shares what he learned, realizing that the world's two largest religions are more different than he thought. Check out the review on the bulletin board by Mitzee.

Another very good book by Kathie Lee Gifford is The Rock, the Road, and the Rabbi. This book is very interesting if you have traveled to Israel and the Holy Land. But, even if you haven't, it really helps you understand the Bible clearly and draw you closer to God.

The Tech-Wise Family by Andy Crouch gives you helpful ways to bring balance and accountability in your family life.

New adult fiction are: Kill Shot by Susan Sleeman, Chasing Secrets by Lynette Eason, #4 in the Elite Guardian Series, Oath of Honor and Called to Protect, #1 and #2 in the Blue Justice Series.

Kids: Lola Plants a Garden by Anna McQuinn, My Busy Green Garden by Terry Pierce, In the Garden: Who's Been There? By Lindsay George; Sweet Pea & Friends, A Farm for Maisie, and The Sheepover by John and Jennifer Churchman; The World is Awake: A Celebration of Everyday Blessings by Linsey Davis.

DVDs: We received a donation of family friendly DVDs published through Stepping Stone Entertainment: Chasing 3000, Gordon Family Tree, The Assignment, Will & Dewitt, The Goodbye Bird, and Pete's Christmas
