Two, quite busy and bumpy, blessed months...

Dear Friends, the last two months have been full of surprises, some of them very encouraging, and some others not so pleasant. In all of all these experiences your prayers have sustained us, and the Lord certainly has answered them with many blessings.

Guatemala. Quique was in Guatemala the first two weeks of June, working primarily with the group of professionals that he has been discipling. He also spent time with the professionals (from several countries) that his life-long mentor has disciplined for several years. They meet once a year for prayer, accountability, and encouragement.

Minneapolis. As a result of an eyes check up, on June 27th. Quique had surgery in his right eye to remove growing Pterygiums. We didn't imagine the weeks the recovery was going to take, especially as he had to continue working online.

Wisconsin. July 12-23 we had the privilege to attend two church missions events, and visiting seven families that support our ministry. It was very refreshing and spiritually uplifting to see their commitment to what the Lord is doing in the world through the proclamation of the gospel.

Minneapolis. On July 29 Quique had the privilege to preach at the Latino Ministry of New Hope Church EFC, MN, What a joy it was to see God's people eager to hear the Word of God proclaimed for his glory and honor.

Costa Rica, We are very thankful to God for the joy it was to participate of the ReachGlobal Latin America missionaries conference, It was a time of biblical teaching, prayer and fasting, and fellowship with old friends and new missionaries.

Thank you for praying for Becky during the Q&A panel. It went very well and the ladies were very appreciative.

lowship, worship, Communion, and strategic planning, We look forward to what God has for ProMETA in the future. On August 20, we started a new bi-mester, and Quique will be teaching a course on The Gospel in Culture. He has eight students from Mexico, Costa Rica, and Venezuela. Praise the Lord.

Costa Rica We are very thankful for your intercessory prayers on behalf of the ProMETA team during our annual working retreat (August 11 – 14). It was a time of great fel-

While our team was in Costa Rica, Dr. Tim McIntosh, Director of the Leadership Department, offered the course Leadership that Produces much Fruit, face-to-face and online, to Cristian leaders in several countries. This is the result of a new initiative to take advantage of the many opportunities available when our staff is traveling to places with potential students.

Costa Rica. Something unexpected that came up while in Costa Rica was that Becky had to have surgery on August 15th to have her gallbladder removed. Thankfully, the surgery went very well, but the doctors do not want her to travel back to the U.S. yet. We are both staying in Costa Rica with fellow missionaries. We are very thankful for the many ways God has provided and is taking care of us during this difficult situation. Becky is recovering well, and Quique has had the opportunity to collaborate in person with the ProMETA staff based in Costa Rica, including his teaching assistant, Alexander.
