What a whirlwind! A month ago we were packing and preparing to move out of our house of 7 years. This included selling or giving away most of what we owned. 10 days ago we were in Spain living with friends and meeting with others to say good bye (hasta luego, which means "until later"). Now we are in Wisconsin, living with friends. In the last few days we've set up our cell phones, participated in a great family wedding, purchased a car and made an offer on a house, which was accepted. Our Father takes great care of us!

The above pictures chronicle some of the last days in Spain. From the upper left, the elders of the church we planted are praying for our transition. Upper right, we're enjoying dinner with good friends and ministry partners, Miguel and Hilary. Miguel is also in the lower right, with Ron and me, representing La Plaza, a church planting platform in Spain. The other picture is of a photo, given to us by friends in the last town in which we lived and worked, Arroyomolinos. We are blessed to have good friends in many places!

Now we are transitioning to a new ministry context in Wisconsin. We are not completely sure what that means yet. We do know that Mark will continue to coach church planters in Spain, and expand his life coaching ministry in the United States. Check out the new blog on the web page, Life Channel Coaching, at www.lifechannelcoaching.com.

Thanks for praying with us,

Mark and Kay
