MIT'S BIT'S: Ready, set, go!

As we flipped the calendar this past week, we find once again that we shift out of the season of summer fun into the norm. Some call this the greatest time of the year, because normal kicks into gear again. I recall a Staples commercial: “It’s the most wonderful time of the year!” with dad setting up the kids with all sorts of back-to-school items.

Some people can’t wait to get back to the busyness of the regular routine. Even though it’s busier, it has (for the most part) a steady pace that’s mostly predictable. Schedules make their way to the forefront of people’s minds. Especially for those who have roles within the church, we are more interested in when we need to do things. Other people are apprehensive about getting back. Perhaps they’re entering into something new: a new grade or a new position. The unknown can make life feel unnerving.

Whatever we feel, we know this is inevitable. Time doesn’t stop for anyone. Before you know it, we’ll be back around to the beginning of next summer, when we have the “whole season” to do all sorts of great things. God is good in His timing. We are blessed to have the changes of life that we do. Let’s embrace it and thank Him for all He gives us!
