

“TWO MOLDS”

Jesus teaches us to be _____.

Jesus calls us to be _____.

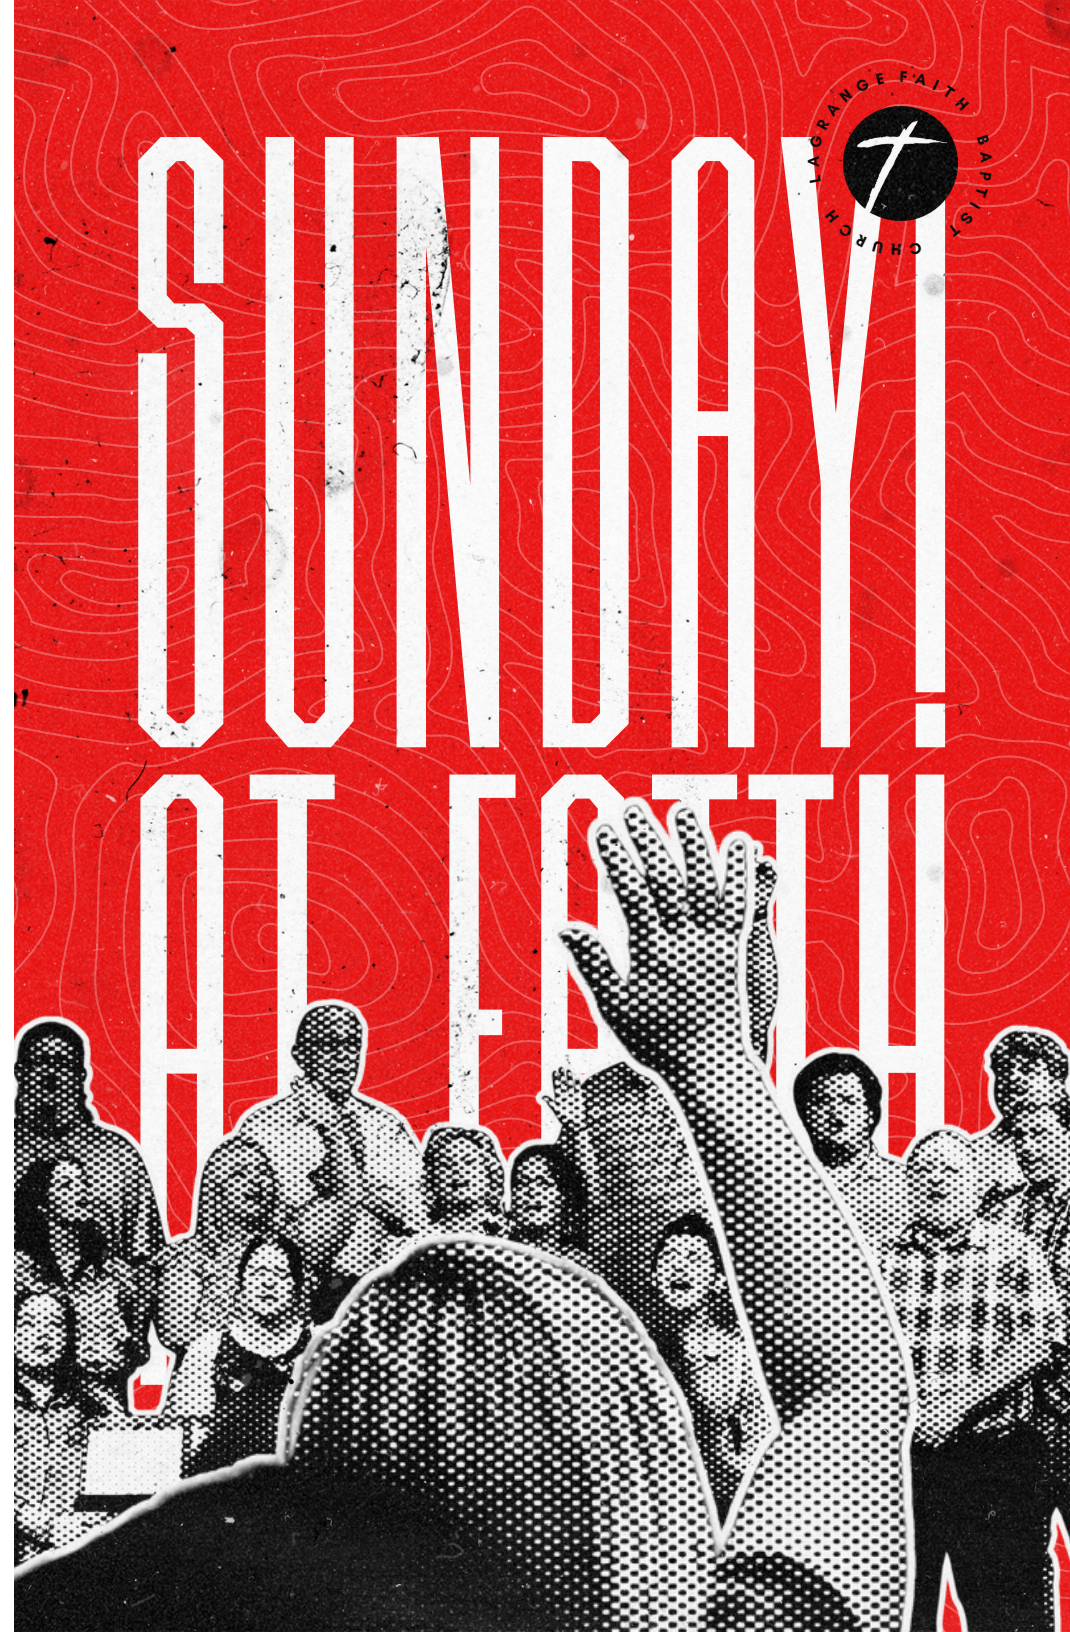

Jesus calls us to _____.

Jesus went about doing good. He always did the Father's will. He taught us to _____
_____.

You either believe the _____
_____, or you believe the
_____, but they are not interchangeable.

Life doesn't pour you into a mold. It's up to you to decide which mold to pour your life into. But the mold that you pour your life into, is the image of what you will become.

Which mold will shape your life? The mold that shapes your _____, is the mold that will shape your _____.

MISSIONARY SPOTLIGHT

One of the men of our church has stated his desire to organize and take with him a group of families with children who would like to join him and family on a short mission trip. The goal is to identify a need and take this group to meet that need. Recently we described how a church group joined David Gates, our Missionary to the Muslims in Michigan, to hand out tracks and copies the books of John/ Romans translated into the language spoken by many of the immigrants in that area. They handed out thousands of copies of each and now many have a portion of God's truth in their hands.

Much can be gained from such a trip. The first and foremost is that you are answering the call upon all our lives found in Matthew 28:19. Along with doing something positive with each member of your family you are teaching your children the importance of reaching out to others. The blessings in this could be both short term and long term. Through your efforts to be a blessing you will discover the blessings you received.

We have agreed to pray and to seek God's plan for such a trip. Would you begin praying asking God to direct our steps in choosing the right mission project. If you fit the proposed group dynamic of a family with children, would you begin asking God about your participation and trust Him to work out the details for you and your family.

If you think you might be interested in knowing more about this, there is a sign-up sheet in the foyer. If you complete this with your name and email address, we will notify you as things begin to take shape. You are not committing but simply saying I have interest, tell me more.
