Families

This last week in our series on Godly relationships we talked about having a Godly relationship with our families. Sometimes it is hard to always obey your parents especially when they ask you to do something you do not want to do. But we have to obey if we want to have that Godly relationship with them. Sunday we will continue our series with having a Godly relationships while dating. Remember our bf or gf was once a stranger then became a friend and if you get married will become family. Godly relationships are important.

Dustin's Corner

I hope you all had a great time at 30 Hour Famine. It was such a fun evening for me. It is always fun to be with you on evenings like that. Midnight worship will always be one of my favorite times with you all. We are all hungry and a little tired but we get to enjoy God's word and worship Him no matter what. Another fun thing for me that night was playing that game with the mouth pieces. It was funny trying to see you guys say the phrase and for us to guess it. It sometimes didn't make sense and we had to repeat it a few times and other times we got it right away. It's the same with God's word. Sometimes we read something in the Bible and we are like "I really don't understand that". Then we read it over again and again and then God makes it a little clearer for us. Not everything we read is always easy to understand but all we have to do it repeat it and also ask God to help us understand and He will help us. Then there are those times where we read it and we just get it. We understand it right away and I hope that gets you excited. Understanding God's word is important for us to continue to grow. We may never understand all of it but as long as we are trying that is what counts. So stay in the Word and don't get discouraged if you don't understand it right away. Just keep reading and praying.
