

Today's Spotlight
is on

Quincey Sondeno

On most Sunday mornings, if you look closely enough, Quincey can be seen in the Sound Booth alongside hubby Ole. Other ministries the quiet, low-key twosome have been involved in are brewing coffee & washing dishes for Fellowship and overseeing the Youth Group.

That interaction with the Youth Group provided Quincey with the opportunity to both receive mentoring from former CE Director Tammy Scott and to take those mentoring skills learned to benefit the teens of the Youth Group.

Quincey Holm Sondeno was born and reared in Cody. It has been rumored that she was born riding a horse, but that's only rumor. Truth is that while she was not born on a horse, she did ride one, in wedding attire, to her nuptials.

Pony Club, where its members learn everything horse, was Quincey's favorite extra curricular activity as a youngster. She dreamt of becoming a vet when she grew up, her dreams, however, did not include the math and science courses that go into a veterinarian degree. Alas, math was not her strong suit; and, therefore, doctoring animals as an occupation was not to be her future.

However, Quincey was able to fulfill a portion of that dream when she departed for Australia, where she enrolled in a school offering horse-specific classes, such as Horse Structure & Function, which were, ~~hooves-down~~ hands down, the most gratifying and interesting classes she'd ever taken.

When asked if she'd like to travel back Down Under, Quincey responded quickly with a yes. "I'd like to go back and visit some of the friends I made whom I still keep in touch with through Facebook." She'd also like to visit the Gold Coast — the Great Barrier Reef — a place her last itinerary hadn't allowed for.

But for now she's content living in Diamond Basin, where she has the daily care and keeping of her own horse, and occasionally takes time to re-read her childhood favorites, Mary O'Hara's Wyoming Summer and My Friend Flicka,.

