

Built for Battle (Part 7) - Going Deeper Questions

Sunday, August 2, 2026

Question #1: What mindset or attitude do you need God to transform in your life right now? Are there areas where your thinking is still driven by comfort, fear, or self-interest instead of God's purpose? What would it look like to intentionally prepare your heart each day before the battles of life begin?

Question #2: Is there a habit, attitude, relationship, or pattern from your old life that you continue to revisit? What is one area where God is saying, "Enough is enough"? What practical step can you take this week to stop chasing your old life and begin pursuing God's best for you?

Question #3: If you truly lived with an eternal perspective, what priorities would change in your daily schedule? What distractions have slowly crowded out your time with God? How can you become more intentional in preparing your heart through prayer rather than simply reacting when life becomes difficult?

Question #4: When conflict, disappointment, or offense comes into your life, is your first response grace or frustration? Is there someone you need to forgive, encourage, or love more intentionally? How can you better represent the heart of Jesus through your words, attitudes, and actions this week?

Question #5: How are you currently stewarding the gifts, opportunities, and influence God has entrusted to you? Are you serving faithfully, or have you allowed fear, busyness, or comfort to keep you on the sidelines? What next step of obedience is God asking you to take?

Question #6: Looking at your spiritual life today, where are you being proactive and where are you simply reacting? If someone observed your daily habits: your prayer life, Bible reading, worship, generosity, and relationships, would they conclude that you are preparing for spiritual victory? What one new spiritual discipline could help you become more intentional in your walk with Christ?

Challenge:

1. Start each day by asking God to give you the mind and attitude of Jesus.
2. Identify one habit or influence that is cooling your relationship with God, and intentionally replace it with something that strengthens your Christian walk.
3. Find one practical way to steward God's grace this week by loving someone deeply, showing hospitality, or using your spiritual gift to serve another person.
