SUBJECT: Prevention of Illness
Outbreaks at Camps

This past year, Environmental Health Services (EHS) received several reports of illness outbreaks at organized camps. Illness outbreaks are preventable with the proper precautions. This includes a mandatory health screening of campers and staff, proper handwashing, and other hygienic practices.

The mandatory "Health Screening" must be conducted by a qualified staff member for all campers under the age of 18 who are unaccompanied by a parent or guardian within 24 hours of arriving at camp, and for all staff prior to the arrival of campers. It is recommended that the mandatory health screening of campers and staff be done prior to their arrival at camp, pre-screening them, to prevent the spread of illness. Pre-screening of campers and staff is critical to prevent an illness outbreak from starting. The screening should include the following inquiries:

1. Has the camper/staff exhibited symptoms such as nausea, vomiting, or diarrhea within the last 24 hours?
2. Does the camper/staff have an elevated temperature, over 100°F?
3. Does the camper/staff display other transmissible conditions (i.e. lice, pink eye, etc.)?
4. Has the camper/staff been recently exposed (within the last 48 hours) to family members who have exhibited any symptoms or illness as described above? If so, monitor the camper/staff more closely.

A sample health screening form has been included with this letter. Please contact us if you would like the form electronically.

It is extremely important that campers and staff members be prevented from coming to camp when ill. When a relatively large group of people are in close proximity to each other, like at camp, it provides the perfect environment for the spread of illness. The spread of illness can be prevented through good hygienic practices. Staff and campers must thoroughly wash their hands as frequently as needed, particularly after using the restroom and before handling food.
