

Corcls for Camp

Sarah Anderson

Because Sarah Anderson (age 14) had been serving at Pine Valley Camp with her family for many years, she saw the needs of the camp and the Lord stirred her heart to find a way to help. She discussed her desire with the camp directors, and they suggested raising money to buy 10 corcls for the campers as there are 10 kids in a cabin. What is a corcl? A corcle is a small round boat that can be used in the camp's pool or river. The camper paddles the corcl and it can spin around, be steered through balance challenges, and be linked to other corcls providing a fun water toy perfect for cabin bonding. Each corcl costs $369 so the task to raise enough money for 10 of them was a bit daunting to Sarah. She created a brochure, sent letters and emails to friends and family, and within about two months, she had the money secured. In fact, she raised well over her goal so the camp is now thinking about what else they need! The campers are enjoying the corcls, and Sarah learned that following God's call and putting in some effort is very rewarding.
