We Trust in You

Dear God, we are thankful that You love us so much to walk with us during seasons when we feel unequipped. We may not know Your mighty plan, but we trust that You have a plan. Even if the season we're in now doesn't make sense, or we may feel like what we are doing is nothing of value. We TRUST Your word. Prompt us in moments of discouragement or defeat to remind us that we can do everything and anything with a joyful spirit because we are doing it for You and for Your glory. Teach us what You want us to learn in this season, and we commit to being excellent in the season we are in now. Amen.

It seems as though the leaves just burst into color overnight. And just like that, dramatic fall is here. Maybe you consider fall more melancholy than dramatic. Yet the presence of change engulfs us all, regardless of our feelings toward it. It's impossible not to feel it. How you respond to that change makes all the difference.

And oh how God wants us to respond with JOY and THANKSGIVING. It's a choice. Our feelings will certainly deceive us. So when you don't feel joyful, choose obedience.

JOY WILL COME.

AWANA has begun again! This is an exciting opportunity to engage children in structured Bible work and the gospel, with weekly Club time on Sundays from 5-6pm. Please consider registering your 3-year-old through 6th grader now on the Awana page of the Fall Creek website. Look for a fellowship bible study offering coming soon for parents during Awana!

And we say together: Thank you, Lord.

The Weary Mom

Parenting is hard.

Our weariness often seems to come from a disconnection between hands and heart.

We are busy serving, meeting all of our children's needs, while setting aside our own. We feel desperate at times. "Exhausted" doesn't cover it.

All day long, we work with servant's hands—but not always with a servant's heart.

We don't just want to keep our kids alive but to raise them with gladness and thankfulness. Instead of a dormant or resentful heart, we genuinely want a humble one. A heart like Christ.

You must know the character of the One who served best

What weary moms need is a meditation on Christ—a long, lingering look at humility in the flesh, the beautiful and blessed Jesus, who reveals to us what servant-heartedness looks like. (Phil 2)
