

Expectations for Adult Leaders

A key element in the success of Cross Camp is the work of your adult leaders. Have your counselors spend some time in personal spiritual preparation for the week. Participation will also require them to be committed to the responsibilities listed below:

1. EVERY adult coming to camp must, by law, complete a child protection training before coming to camp. We have provided the online opportunity for you every adult to do this free of charge. Ask your youth minister for more information.
2. Groups are to be accompanied by an adult male for every 10 male students and an adult female for every 10 female students.
3. Help students be present and on time for all classes, activities, and worship services. Participation is not optional for youth or counselors. Check rooms prior to each event.
4. Help Cross Camp staff monitor students during free time.
5. Help ensure a spiritual environment during worship. At the beginning of the week, explain your expectations (no picture taking, no talking, etc.) for behavior during worship. Try to limit students leaving out of worship to go to the bathroom and to get water. Be prepared for worship by having Bible, pen and paper. God has some awesome things in store for us during worship.
6. Encourage and monitor proper dress among your students and set a good example with your clothing. (See Dress Code).
7. Enforce curfews for being in the rooms and for lights out and no noise. We know this is sometimes hard to do, but it will help your students get more out of camp when they are rested. The camp director may extend curfew some nights. This will be announced at the end of worship.
8. Assist with counseling during the invitation time at the conclusion of worship service. Also, look for counseling opportunities throughout the day. Especially be on the lookout for loners or members of your group with special needs.
9. Counselors cannot participate in and must stop all shaving cream wars, water gun fights, etc. in dorms, in other buildings, or outside. What starts out as seemingly harmless fun often leads to retaliation that can be harmful to people and property. All damages from your group will be invoiced accordingly.
10. Work with counselors from other churches to help camp run smoothly. If there is a problem, please see a member of the Cross Camp staff.
11. Supervise room clean-up at the end of the week.

Child Protection Training

It is Texas state law that each adult staying on campus go through an official child protection training before camp. Cross Camp is offering this to you free of charge. If you used ours last year, you are covered because they last for 2 years. Ask your youth minister for more information.
