Sermon: A Risk Worth Taking

This week we're exploring a story commonly referred to as the parable of the talents. In it we discover that none of us is an owner, but we are all stewards of that which belongs to God. We don't all receive the same talents, but each of us is called to use the talents we have – to be bold, risk takers in investing for God's kingdom – so that God will say to us, "Well done, good and faithful servant." This week's readings focus on Jesus' teaching about how to best prepare ourselves for his return.
