God at Work: They're on Their Way!

We serve a God who can do amazing things! In our last update, we asked for prayer for two new international apprentices to receive their US visas in order to come to JAARS for pilot/mechanic training. Given how complicated the international scene has been lately, we knew the approvals could be slow and challenging. But we're thrilled to share that both visas have been approved! Naomi will be arriving soon from Germany and Ethan from Australia. We clearly see God's hand at work. He is in control, and He made a way!

Can you spot the JAARS plane on the runway in Indonesia?

Once Naomi and Ethan complete two years of pilot/mechanic training here at JAARS, they will be sent to one of our ministry bases overseas. This was the first of their many steps of faith into the unknown. We are excited to meet Naomi and Ethan and pour into their lives.

Hangar Happenings.

It has been encouraging to see our apprentice groups taking off! (Pun intended :) The group that started in January is now working on their first hands-on projects. For three of the apprentices, this is their first time ever working on real, flight-worthy aircraft. There's a different feel to the work when you know your coworker is about to fly in the plane you are fixing!

The group that started a year ago has now reached the point where they can legally maintain and sign off on their own repairs. To help them step into these new roles, the apprentices were tasked with leading inspections on both of our Cessna 172s. Jeyson's role was to work as one of the mechanics, actively performing maintenance under their leadership while also observing for quality. He intentionally allowed them to take the lead, stepping in only as needed. They did a great job!

Hands and Feet in the Emergency Room.

This first part of the year has been a whirlwind for me! I've been finishing my final semester of nursing school while completing an emergency department internship at a local hospital. It was an incredible experience that strengthened my skills as I cared for a wide range of patients; from minor illnesses to trauma. I also had meaningful opportunities to encourage others and be the hands and feet of Jesus. One highlight was caring for a Brazilian family who didn't speak English. I was able to speak in Portuguese to explain procedures to them and help calm their concerns. I'll be graduating in four weeks and plan to take my boards this summer.

New Life in Jesus.

As I write this update, we are celebrating Resurrection weekend. We are excited that one of the ladies from my class and her family joined us for church! Please pray that the Lord would draw their hearts towards Him. We are so grateful for abundant, new life and hope that comes through faith in Jesus!

Our prayer is that God would renew your heart as we come back to this simple truth: "I am the resurrection and the life. The one who believes in me will live, even though they die; and whoever lives by believing in me will never die." John 11:25-26
