#3 What Happens Immediately After Death (& How Do We Know)? 1 Thessalonians 4:14-17

Why Is There Uncertainty Now?

Two Books of Revelation—the Bible and Nature

Until modern times, Scripture was regarded as the final authority on everything that it addresses, including topics also studied by philosophy and science.

It is not that the passage is not clear but there is something that is hindering them from seeing and/or seeing its simplicity or clarity.

So what's going on?

The Physical-Spiritual Biblical Worldview

The biblical worldview includes more than God plus the physical universe. Scripture distinguishes God from creation absolutely and it views creation as having both natural and supernatural dimensions.

It's important to remember we want to reason from the Bible, it is foundational—it forms the foundation, the starting point for my thinking and it [my thinking or reasoning] proceeds from there forward using the Scripture as a guide and rule.

A Touch of Hope

Next Sunday, May 7, the school bus banks will be in your Sunday School classrooms to take contributions for A Touch of Hope, our church's ministry to local displaced school children.

You will never really enjoy other people, you will never have stable emotions, you will never lead a life of godly contentment, and you will never conquer jealousy and love others as you should until you thank God for making you the way He did. This is not the same as loving yourself, loving yourself only leads to being pre-occupied with yourself, leaving no room for others or true happiness.

Warning

There are many good and solid websites with tools to help Christians study the Bible. However there are those that are heretical and dangerous, some obviously so and others not so obvious. I have come across many who like to use www.bibletools.org. This is not a good site! From their website, "BibleTools.org is dedicated to assisting individuals with their personal Bible study through providing reputable Bible resources and study tools. This site is wholly owned and operated by Church of the Great God, Inc., a non-profit organization. The church, based in the Charlotte, North Carolina, area, is a Sabbath-keeping, non-Trinitarian organization of individuals in the United States, Canada, France, the Netherlands, southern Africa, Australia, Trinidad, the Philippines, and various other locations around the world." Among other things the "Church of the Great God" believes that keeping the 10 commandments is a requirement for salvation, that salvation is not by faith alone, that Jesus is not truly God, etc.

The image shows two systems of musical notation for the hymn 'He Will Hold Me Fast'. Each system consists of a treble clef staff and a bass clef staff. The key signature is one sharp (F#) and the time signature is 3/4. The first system contains three verses of lyrics. The second system contains a refrain with three lines of lyrics. The music is written in a simple, hymn-like style with block chords and single notes.

Remember, Jesus brought you out of Egypt.
Remember, He has sought you as His people.
Remember, He has saved you from your sin.
Remember, remember Him.

Remember, Jesus brought you through the Red Sea.
Remember, mighty miracles that you have seen.
Remember, you were slaves and now are free.
Remember, that He is king.

To the only God, our savior, Jesus Christ.
Be glory, honor, power, and dominion.
Before all time, and now, and evermore!

Remember, Jesus reigns above the heavens.
He's coming, He is coming with his kingdom.
Do not forget, He is seated on the throne.
Remember what He has done.

To the only God, our savior, Jesus Christ.
Be glory, honor, power, and dominion.
Before all time, and now, and evermore.

Perspective: The fact that God ordained our days for us give meaning to every day, not just the special or exciting days of our lives. Every day is important for us because it is a day ordained by God. If we are bored with life there is something wrong with our concept of God and His involvement in our daily lives. Even the most dull and tedious days of our lives are ordained by God and ought to be used by us to glorify Him.

This realization, that God has planned our days for us, should not lead us to a fatalistic acceptance of the status quo. If we have opportunity to improve our situation in a way that will honor God, we should do so. There is a delicate balance between godly efforts to improve our situation and godly acceptance of those situations that cannot be changed by us. For most there are many adverse details of our lives that will not be changed regardless of our efforts or our prayers. They are simply part of God's plan for us. Take comfort in Jeremiah 29:11, "For I know the plans I have for you, declares the Lord, plans to prosper you and not harm you, plans to give you hope and a future."

How Skipping Church Affects Our Children

The church is losing its young people because the parents never taught their children that it was important. By Micah Anglo

In a Q&A, Carl Trueman was asked about why churches today are losing their young people. Typical answers to this question range from things like the temptations of this world or the irrelevance of the church—your typical answers. But Trueman makes a keen and convicting connection between our parenting and apostasy.

“The church is losing its young people because the parents never taught their children that it was important. I think that applies across the board. It applies to family worship, and it also applies to whether you are in church every Sunday and what priority you demonstrate to your children church has on a Sunday. If the sun shines out and their friends are going to the beach, do you decide to skip church and go to the beach? In which case, you send signals to your children that it is not important.” (Carl Trueman)

Now we know that artificially taking your kids to church neither bestows salvation nor guarantees it. God is obviously not honored by external religious acts without heart worship. This type of legalism is not the subject of this discussion. This is about parenting and the weight of the responsibility behind how they prioritize their time and lifestyle choices for their families.

Parents makes choices all the time for their families. As they decide on what takes priority in family, every choice is carefully observed and taken into the heart of their children. Yes, they are watching you, and they are learning from you.

Maybe the reason why our children have no love for Christ is due to the fact that we as parents do not show any love or passion for Christ, evidenced by how we prioritize our time both on Sundays and during the week. When television, sports, school, hobbies even family itself are elevated to a place of idolatry and replace the vital Christian responsibilities, then we tell our children that Christ is secondary to all these things. We tell our children that it is not necessary to take up your cross and die to yourself daily in order to follow Christ. We tell them that you only have to live for Christ when it's convenient for you. We tell them it is okay to sacrifice time with all-satisfying Savior if something “more fun” or “more important” comes along (sarcasm indicated by quotation marks if you didn't catch that). And this sounds like a clear path to apostasy if you ask me.

Let's evaluate where our hearts are by observing our choices. Do you prioritize the local church? Do you prioritize the worship of Christ in your home and on Sundays? Do you prioritize serving Him and worshipping Him in the contexts of school and work? This doesn't mean that you can't ever miss a Sunday or that you can't have any extracurricular activities. Instead, it is a sobering reminder that we shouldn't put the things of God at the bottom of the priority list, because it tells our children that Christ is at the bottom of our priority list. And the God of this universe does not belong there.

My prayer is that we all would improve in this area. But beware, maybe we don't see this because Christ isn't a priority in our lives. And if He isn't a priority in our lives, then our children will know and follow suit.

The Worst Consequence of Skipping Church

By Tim Challies

We are a culture of convenience, of personalization, of individualism. We have a million ways of customizing our lives to perfectly suit our every preference. When things are difficult, we think little of pulling away from responsibilities, of reorienting our lives away from whatever causes inconvenience. This can even extend to something as good and as central as our commitment to the local church.

All of us who are involved in local churches have seen people waver and wander in their commitment. Most of us have had to extend the call to someone, to urge them back to participation, back to the worship services. When we do this, we often turn to our go-to text, Hebrews 10:24-25, to warn of the danger of “neglecting to meet together, as is the habit of some...” We insist that those who neglect to participate in the local church will encounter spiritual temptation, spiritual decline, and even spiritual death. And while all of this is true, it is not the emphasis of that passage. In fact, when we use the passage in this way, we are not displaying the divine urgency behind the text, but our own deep-rooted individualism.

Here is what Hebrews 10:24-25 says: “And let us consider how to stir up one another to love and good works, not neglecting to meet together, as is the habit of some, but encouraging one another, and all the more as you see the Day drawing near.” This passage does, indeed, warn of the serious consequences of skipping church, but its focus is not what we might expect through our Western, individualized eyes. This passage does not warn us that when we skip church we put ourselves at risk. Rather, it warns us that when we skip church we put other people at risk. The first sin of skipping church is the sin of failing to love others.

Gathering with God’s people is not first about being blessed but about being a blessing. It’s not first about getting but about giving. As we prepare to worship on Sunday morning, our first consideration should be “how to stir up one another to love and good works.” We should approach Sunday deliberately, eager to do good to others, to be a blessing to them. In those times we feel our zeal waning, when we feel the temptation to skip out on a Sunday or withdraw altogether, we should consider our God-given responsibility to encourage “one another, and all the more as you see the Day drawing near.” This text is not about us, but about them. This text is not for Christian individuals but Christian communities.

And, of course, our commitment to the local church is far more than a commitment to Sunday morning services. It is a commitment to other people through all of life. It is a commitment to worship with them once or twice a week, then to fellowship with them, to serve them, and to pray for them all throughout the week. It is to bind ourselves together in a covenant in which we promise to do good to them, to make them the special object of our attention and encouragement. It is to promise that we will identify and deploy our spiritual gifts for their benefit so we can serve them, strengthen them, and bless them.

Every Christian has a place within a local church. Every Christian is needed within a local church. Every Christian has responsibilities within a local church. Every Christian is to commit to the members of a local church and to love them, to encourage them, and to stir them up in zeal until the day of Christ’s return.

Missionary of the Week

Arnold Fruchtenbaum Ariel Ministries - Texas

Ariel Ministries was created by Arnold to evangelize and disciple Jewish brethren through Bible, theology and solid doctrine. Over the years, Ariel Ministries has spread their Messianic Centers throughout various cities in the U.S., Canada, and Israel. Missionary, Bible and Prophetic Conferences are held in churches and schools all over the U.S. and the world where the focus is understanding the Word from a Jewish perspective. Camp Shoshanah is a learning facility that Ariel Ministries runs as a Bible training and discipleship program taught from a Jewish perspective for Jewish and Gentile believers. They are still building needed facilities for this school. For more information, visit their website at: www.ariel.org.

From Arnold's latest prayer report, please pray:

- For Mary Ann's health.
- For the completion of the third and fourth dormitories. We have received additional funds for these projects, and all workers have been kept on staff, but not all of the finances needed have come in. Please pray that we receive funds.
- For additional funds to complete all of our projects for the campus, which will expedite the new school.
- Please pray for the details in finalizing the school program for the year 2017-2018.
- Please pray that the Lord will send us 15 students for the 2017-2018 academic year.
- For the completion of the DVD of the study tour of Israel.
- For the salvation of my mother, my two brothers, and my three sisters.
- For the proofreading of volumes three and four of Yeshua: The Life of Messiah. Pray that the volumes will be published in a timely manner. Volume 3 will be sent to the proofreaders shortly. I have begun my final editing of volume 4.

Idolatry: We never make a conscious choice to become an idolater, but we do make the choice to indulge in what eventually leads us there. It happens gradually, as we turn repeatedly to something or someone other than God to meet a felt need or desire. Over time, a dependence is formed whether for pleasure or escape, displacing God in the process.
