Monday

Real people know who they were, who they are in Christ, and who God is still shaping them to become. Because of the gospel, our past no longer defines us and our struggles no longer disqualify us. What part of your story have you been tempted to hide instead of surrender to God's grace?

Tuesday

A real church isn't built on a building or a brand, but on people devoted to God's Word, one another, and reaching the lost. When Scripture is central, it reshapes how we treat each other and pushes us outward in love. How are you actively participating in the life of the church beyond Sunday and the four walls of the building?

Wednesday

The gospel is not just information; it is the power of God at work in those who believe. Real change happens in a moment when we trust Christ and over a lifetime as He continues to shape us. Where is God inviting you to trust Him more deeply in the process of transformation?

Thursday

The believers in Antioch didn't call themselves Christians; the world named them because their lives looked like Jesus. When real people live real faith together, the watching world takes notice. If others described your faith this week, what would they say it looks like?

Friday

The early church obeyed the mission Jesus gave them: to make disciples wherever they went. Even when persecution scattered them, they kept living sent and trusting God to work through ordinary faithfulness. Where has God placed you right now to live on mission this week?
