Kay Brown has been making, performing, directing, and teaching music for all of her adult life. She is committed to encouraging people of all ages to give creative expression to their hopes, dreams, and faith. A graduate of Hope College (Holland, Michigan), Kay has focused her energies on both ends of the life spectrum – working with preschoolers and teenagers, as well as being an activities director for senior citizens. She has taught music at the Colts Neck Reformed Church Nursery School and as a volunteer at her church for the past 29 years. Kay has directed both children's vocal choirs and teenaged handbell choirs. Kay is a certified Music Together® teacher and as such is committed to helping families, caregivers, and children discover the pleasure and educational value of informal music experiences. She is married and has three adult children – all of whom know the joy that comes from making music.

Elana Eng became a Music Together® mom in 2001 when her eldest child was a year old. With the birth of her second child, Elana continued classes with her children. When her first two children aged out of the program she took the Music Together® training (2006) and taught for several years with both Music Together® and Musikgarten programs in Monmouth and Mercer counties. Elana has a great love for music, making of all kinds and singing. Over the course of nine years she has studied various instruments including piano, organ, and clarinet. She still actively plays the clarinet, and has been involved in playing handbells for 15 years. She can currently be seen playing with the handbell choir of St. Thomas More Church of Manalapan. Elana also sings in two all-female choirs, including her church choir at St. Mary's Church in Colts Neck, and Upper Octave, which pairs with the New Jersey Gay Men's Chorus seasonally for their concerts.

Music Together® classes are based on the recognition that all children are musical!

Mixed Ages Class
