The Glass of Milk

A man called his father desperately seeking advice on his troubled marriage. He told his dad that his new wife and he were arguing non-stop.

His father thought for a while and then stated he had the sure-fix cure. 'Son, next time a quarrel starts sip a glass of milk but don't swallow it. Hold it in your mouth until the situation calms down. Repeat this whenever you are about to argue and you'll soon see matters improve.'

A week later the son excitedly called his father, saying, 'It actually worked – our relationship has never been better. Tell me dad, what is the secret behind the glass of milk?'

His father replied, 'No big secret. The milk does nothing – it's keeping your mouth shut that solves the problem.'

In heated situations, the appropriate thing to say is usually nothing – yet few of us have that control. We feel we must constantly vindicate ourself, matching insult for insult and never letting anyone get the upper hand. But where does that get us? People will believe what they wish no matter how we plead. Furthermore, even if we happen to win the insult match we certainly don't win friends.

Our Lord Jesus Christ said very little when unfairly tried and condemned, (...as a lamb before its shearer is silent, so He opened not his mouth. Acts 8:32). Christ gave them no reason to justify their wrong actions. He knew the power of silence.

When we have absolute confidence that God will vindicate us (if necessary), there is no need to open our mouth in our defence. We can relax and practice tolerance and virtue-love. We soon learn that having a Christ-like attitude resolves the majority of life's problems before they even begin. (Proverbs 17:28. Psalms 5:11).
