

Are Mormons Christians?

Many Mormons tell us that they are Christians and believe in Jesus, so why do we say they are not Christians? We say this because their view of God, salvation, and Jesus is contrary to the teachings of the Bible.

If you are a Mormon, we ask that before you email us telling us we don't know what we're talking about, please read the material on the site, and if you see something wrong offer a correction with the documentation. Please provide the sources you want to quote to prove your point. If you can prove your point, we will change the information.

If you can't do this then please do not email us. Opinions and feelings don't hold up against the facts. We are not trying to be mean-spirited to anyone but we believe we must present this information up front—information that is normally not told to potential new converts. Then, if potential converts see that you believe that God is a man with flesh and bones, lives on a planet near the great star Kolob, has a wife, that there are many gods, that Jesus and Satan are spirit-brothers, and that they must learn secret handshakes in order to enter the third kingdom of heaven then at least they know what they are getting into.
