Sunday Worship Celebration
“Comparative Judgement”

Today’s Message:

“Judge not, that you be not judged. For with the judgement you pronounce you will be judged, and with the measure you use it will be measured to you.” Matthew 7:1-2

We see Paul move from the core of the steadfast love of God to a practical demonstration of that love when he commands us to not fulfill the desires of the flesh but to put on the Lord Jesus Christ. He also moves the theme of the coming of the fulfillment of salvation to the next level of the judgement of God when Christ returns. These two themes are brought together as Paul tells believers to not judge one another for what they eat or don’t eat, or for the day they celebrate or they refrain from celebrating. He wants us to keep focused on the main thing – Jesus Christ. We are to serve Christ and to pursue peace and mutual edification of the body. So, let us not cause another to stumble, but build up the body and be individually secure in your faith, not doubting. Examine yourself and do whatever you do for the Lord, being secure in your faith. As we come to the Lord’s table today, may we give preference to one another with all gratitude in our hearts for we know that every knee shall bow and tongue confess to God that Jesus Christ is Lord of all.
