Caring for God's House...

... The Place Where Ministry Happens

Protecting the Ministry We Depend On

Some of the most important things at Bethlehem are the ones you never think about.

Fire sprinkler heads. Security cameras. The phone system. Technology backups. These aren't flashy. Most people walk right past them every week without a second thought.

But they protect everything else.

This part of the Caring for God's House appeal focuses on replacing aging fire sprinkler heads, upgrading security cameras, updating the phone system, and improving our IT backup capacity.

Together, these projects protect the safety and readiness of every person who uses this building — children, families, staff, guests, and community partners.

We don't plan to need them. That's exactly why we prepare.

“The prudent see danger and take refuge.”
— Proverbs 22:3

Why Your Participation Matters

Over the past several weeks, we've looked at the full scope of the Caring for God's House appeal — roofs and classrooms, lighting, grounds, and now safety systems.

Every project connects to the same thing: keeping this place ready for ministry.

Soon, every Bethlehem household will be invited to make a one-year commitment to this effort. This isn't about equal gifts. It's about shared participation.

Some will give more. Some will give less. Every gift moves us forward. Every household that participates strengthens what we're building together.

“This building has served Bethlehem for generations. Today it needs our care.”
