State and Local Officials Gather to Recognize HGR for its Contribution to Ohio Manufacturing

by Gina M. Tabasso

On Oct. 1, HGR Industrial Surplus celebrated Manufacturing Day with a site-dedication ceremony and customer appreciation sale that included 20 to 50 percent off most items in the showroom and resulted in more than 225 people visiting and one of the company's top sales days.

Customers began to arrive before 7:30 a.m. to shop for used industrial surplus goods, including one whose mother built GM auto bodies at the facility. Guests continued to arrive for the 11 a.m. dedication ceremony emceed by Mark "Munch" Bishop of WKNR 850 AM, who shared a brief history of the site before turning the floor over to Brian Krueger, one of HGR's owners who introduced many honored guests.

Euclid Mayor Bill Cervenik acknowledged the $10-12 million of improvements that HGR has begun making to the fire system, roof and parking lot, saying, "I remember dodging chuckholes as big as your car in the lot when it was owned by the previous landlord." Council President Kirsten Holzheimer-Gale said a few words and introduced Ward 1 Councilwoman Stephana C. Caviness, as well as Pearletha Taylor, president of the Heritage Park Neighborhood Association, then presented HGR with a friendship plaque from the city.

Krueger acknowledged Cheryl Stephens of the Cuyahoga Land Bank who helped negotiate the site acquisition.

Christopher Diehl, Cleveland city architect and board member of Ingenuity Cleveland, invited guests to Ingenuity Festival, Oct. 2-4, and introduced the two artists competing in the first Iron Architect competition to build a unique seating environment using some materials and equipment from HGR's showroom. Matt Fieldman of Manufacturing Advocacy Growth Network (MAGNET) announced the STEAM Resource Center, to be housed in HGR's customer lounge, which will provide information on manufacturing organizations and careers.

Bob Torelli, Euclid High School Science Department chair, introduced some members of the Euclid High School Robotics Team, who later demonstrated their competition battle robot, and accepted an award, from HGR, on behalf of the team to recognize its outstanding accomplishments in the 2015 AWT Northeast Ohio Regional RoboBots Competition. Torelli says of the team members' dedication, "They met twice per week, including three hours every Saturday morning from November through April. They had to learn CAD, the gear ratio for belts, how to program motors, how to problem solve weight issues and, most importantly, how to work together."

Finally, Eric Synenberg, from Ohio Treasurer Josh Mandel's office, issued a proclamation acknowledging HGR's contribution to manufacturing and its participation in National Manufacturing Day, after which

Euclid Library Celebrates 80 years!

by Rebecca McFarland

The Euclid Public Library began 80 years ago with small library collections in two of our early schools. Euclid Central and Shore School served as our city's two high schools and it is in these two school buildings where the Euclid Public Library began!

Elma Whitney served as the first librarian and established the framework that would allow the Euclid Public Library to be an independent library providing service to both the public schools and the residents of Euclid. Helen Pickard served with Miss Whitney and was the first library employee to serve for 25 years! In the beginning, the library had six employees, four busy typewriters to proces the books and a collection of 6913 books.

In 2015, as we celebrate our 80th anniversary, the Euclid Public Library hosts over 171,000 books plus many more types of media including magazines, CDs, audio books, books on CD, comic books and countles items to download to portable devices - all for free as it was 80 years ago. The library has changed dramatically since 1935, yet our mission remains the same. The original intent was to provide a free library, open to all residents in order to serve their educational and recreational needs. The same mission is pursued today with additional goals of fostering a welcome environment, cultivating innovation and learning as well as engaging and supporting the community.

The Foundation of the library as well as the Friends of the Library request that you consider attending the 80th Anniversary Party to celebrate this special occassion. It will be held Friday, October 9 at 6:30p.m. with a ticket price of $35 per guest. Music, historical challenges, food and drink will round out a festive evening inside the library for this after-hours gala! Tickets are available at the library.

In 1942, The Sisters of St. Joseph of St. Mark bought the 25 acre estate on Chardon Hill from the family of Henry Pickands. Pickands was the heir to the Pickands Mather Company, pioneers in the Great Lakes shipping and mining industries. The order of Catholic sisters began to provide rest home services for residents of the area in the large, white, Neo-Georgian-style dwelling that was on the estate property. Of the fifty sisters in the ministry at the time, some were sent to nursing school to be able to better provide medical care to their patients. The rest home soon outgrew the capacity of the house, and in the 1950s, the Sisters raised money, and built a 100-bed nursing facility in increments. This home was called Mount Saint Joseph.

The Sisters have continuously provided excellent nursing care despite their aging facility. At the end of 2012, through the guidance and hard work of Mother Mary Raphael Gregg, the Mother Superior of the order, they were able to replace their nursing facility with a new, state of the art rehabilitation center. Mount St. Joseph Nursing Home became Mount St. Joseph Rehab Center and now also provides short-term rehabilitation with a full staff of nurses, physical therapists, occupational therapists and speech therapists. The beautiful facility boasts private rooms, a sunny courtyard, on-site Mass, and daily social activities.

Cryotherapy puts the freeze on prostate cancer.

One in six U.S. men will be diagnosed with prostate cancer, says the American Cancer Society. Survival rates are high when prostate cancer is caught early, and treatment can be relatively straightforward.

October 2015

David Levy. MD. a Cleveland Clinic urologist at Euclid Hospital, specializes in a minimally invasive, incision-free procedure to treat prostate cancer – cryotherapy.

"Cryotherapy freezes prostate tissue, killing the cancer cells," says Dr. Levy. "The prostate is not removed. It simply turns into scar tissue while preserving normal urinary function."

During cryotherapy, tiny needles are inserted into the prostate with ultrasound guidance. Argon gas is used to supercool the needles and freeze the prostate tissue, killing the cancer. Precision needle placement limits potential side effects.

It's time for a colonoscopy.

What's stopping you?

Colon cancer is one of the most preventable cancers and a colonoscopy is a quick exam that can save your life.

Call 216.444.7000 today to schedule a colonoscopy with a Cleveland Clinic digestive disease specialist including Brian Kirsh, MD, at the Willoughby Hills Family Health Center.

For your convenience, Cleveland Clinic now offers select Saturday appointments at Willoughby Hills.

Most effective on men with early-stage prostate cancer, cryotherapy outcomes are essentially equal to surgery or radiation. Plus, cryotherapy has a significantly lower risk of urinary incontinence than surgery and a lower risk of altered bowel function than radiation. It also can be very effective for patients whose prostate cancer did not respond well

Traditionally, risk of erectile dysfunction has been higher with cryotherapy, but newer nerve-sparing techniques show improved results

Cryotherapy is typically an outpatient procedure. Patients are sent home with a catheter and do not require pain medication. Most patients resume normal activities in a few days. The catheter is removed in

"With prostate cancer, one of my biggest concerns is overtreatment," says Dr. Levy. "There are several options for treating prostate cancer. In the right hands, cryotherapy is an excellent option with minimal risk of complications."

Around age 40, men should begin discussing the risks and benefits of prostate cancer screening with their primary care physician or urologist.

New Independent Film Theater Opens!

by Darryl Epp

September 2015; Eppfilms, an independent film production company, announces that they will be opening an indie film theater in the old Euclid Square Mall in Euclid, Ohio. After starting an independent film production company in 2007 and opening a photography studio in 2014, Darryl Epp will open an Independent Film Theater that specializes in showing short and feature length independent films from the local area, nationwide and around the world.

Of the opening of this Indie Theater, Eppfilms Owner & Filmmaker, Darry Epp said "with opening this Independent film theater we have just added another avenue for independent filmmakers, actors and producers to showcase their works of art. Their art works will be viewed by the general public, other art enthusiast and film lovers alike. Similar to when in 1963 AMC Theaters revolutionized cinema with the first Cineplex Theater in the United States, we hope that we can become a staple for independent film viewing not only in Northeast Ohio but also

Eppfilms Indie Theater will have a soft opening on Saturday September 12, 2015, collaborating with The Artistic By Design Center to present a Film & Photography Showcase from 12noon to 6pm. This Event is open to the public and is FREE to attend. Various independent short films from around the world will be showcased at this

The grand opening for the Indie Theater will be held on Saturday October 3, 2015, the film shown at the opening will be the documentary "The Joyful Agony of Browns Fans" filmed and produced by Darryl Epp. The address to The Eppfilms Indie Theater is 100 Euclid Square Mall, Euclid Ohio 44132 (enter into the north center entrance). Now With Added Alphabetization!: Reviews Of Recent Releases By Local Bands

by Buzz Kompier

Obligatory Disclaimer: Record reviews are a tricky business. It's one thing to enjoy music, but to, like, pick out what you like about it? That being said, if I review your thing and I didn't like something, don't feel too bad. My opinion doesn't matter all that much.

Another Mother's Milk - Milk Money - selfreleased - 22 songs - CD

Quick note: I've been told they're working on getting a download together as well, but right now it's just on CD. Onto the content. "Milk Money" is a good solid 50 minutes of trashy garage pop/rock. A couple songs, such as "Kirtland" and "My Own Scum," go into a folk kinda territory as well. And whatever you'd like to count "Robot Noises" as, kind of a, well, robotic stomp. Good malefemale vocals as well. My favorites were the opener, "Little Cellar Girl," "That's When She Cursed Me" (which sort of reminded me of a loopier Stray Cats), the bluesy-ish "Bomb Shelter," and the crazy, stalker song "Follow You Home." Also includes their great track from the "Short Shorts Vol. 1" 7", "Drone." There were quite a lot of songs, but they were catchy and mostly short, so what's there to complain about there? 4/5

Vanilla Poppers - Demo '15 - Blow Blood Records/Saucepan Records - 6 songs - Cassette,

October 2015

Pretty good punk with female vocals. There's guitar, bass, drums, nothing mucking it up. There isn't any personnel listed, however, so it is possible that there are two guitars, two basses, etc. It's possible. Anyway. The songs are catchy, with great, driving riffs, and the vocals are great. A nice mix of obnoxious and entertaining. I liked it. My favorite track on it has gotta be the opener, "It's Love," which has a great groove to it and cool lyrics. Example: "I don't care, you're nothing, go die." I'm looking forward to hearing more from them, as the six short songs do go by rather quickly. But isn't that what they say, leave them wanting more? 4/5

Las Vegas Host Committee Welcomes Euclid Locals During Football Season

Las Vegas Showgirl CeCe Correia, Ron Kusmier Las Vegas Host Committee Chairman Oscar Goodman, Dave Jackson, Jeff Bowman and Las Vegas Showgirl Tala McDonnough enjoy the kickoff of football season inside The Pub at Monte Carlo in Las Vegas.

Las Vegas is everyone's home field and this weekend, the city was happy to welcome some Euclid locals at the start of football

On Saturday, September 12, the the Las Vegas Convention and Visitors Authority's (LVCVA) Las Vegas Host Committee took to the Las Vegas Strip with Las Vegas Host Committee Chairman Oscar Goodman and his iconic showgirl companions. Their mission was to surprise football fans with special appearances and giveaways as they cheered on their favorite teams on the Las Vegas strip. You may recognize Chairman Goodman as the former mayor of Las Vegas and famed mob attorney who played himself in the movie 'Casino'.

The special football event served as a "Thank You" to tourists for choosing Las Vegas as their travel destination during football season. Chariman Goodman, the showgirls and the Las Vegas Host Committee were happy to meet Euclid locals, Dave Jackson and Ron Kusmier, while visiting The Pub inside Monte Carlo. The pair traveled to Las Vegas to cheer on Ohio State with their friend Jeff Bowman.

Last Year, Las Vegas welcomed more than 41 million visitors and the destination is on pace to break that record in 2015. Football season is an exciting time for visitors to experience the world-class entertainment, sports action and dining options Las Vegas

"The World Goes 'Round", Silhouette Productions Rousing Fall Musical

by Chris Cipriani

"I cannot urge everyone strongly enough to not miss this show. It will touch everyone's heart and spirit at one time or another and lift them up," states Meg McGarry, currently in rehearsals in a principle role for Silhouette Productions fall musical The World Goes 'Round at Shore Cultural Centre. "It is bringing a new dimension to the artistic missions of Shore and Silhouette."

The World Goes 'Round, which showcases the music of John Kander and Fred Ebb, follows the story of five individuals through life and love. Meg McGarry continues, "It sounded like a very intriguing show - a rollicking, high energy, very fast moving production of songs from "Cabaret", "Chicago", "The Kiss of the Spiderwoman", "New York, New York", "The Rink" and many more. Kander and Ebb were a brilliant team, providing many hits on Broadway for over 30 years. After listening to the score, I could see there was something for everyone with some of the best story-telling lyrics and music I have every

"The Star on My Heart" NE Ohio Premiere

by Chris Cipriani

In November, 2015, an original play The Star on My Heart, written by Ohio writer and theater director Angela Miloro-Hansen, will premiere in Northeast Ohio. The play is based on the true story of Holocaust survivor Inge Auerbacher. Of the 15,000 children that were imprisoned in the Terezin concentration camp, Inge is one of the few that survived. This is a story of rare courage, determination and love. Inge, in spite of the hardships she endured, gives proof that the joy in life cannot be kept out of even the darkest places.

The Star on My Heart is an independent project in collaboration with Shore Cultural Centre in Euclid, OH and Geauga Lyric Theater Guild (GLTG) located in Chardon, OH. In addition to performances of the play, educational outreach is planned for regional students. Plans include hosting Inge Auerbacher in Ohio from her home in NY, to attend performances and be available for limited speak-

Free Thanksgiving Meal

by Laura Pistoor

Now that the summer is behind us, the days are shorter, the air crisp. Our thoughts turn to the holidays. It is hard to imagine that Thanksgiving is only a few weeks away. WillowPraiseChurch in Willowick will be hosting its annual FREE Thanksgiving Meal on Thursday, November 26th from 12:00pm- 2:00pm. This is their 15th year of serving free Thanksgiving meals.

WillowPraiseChurch has been in the WesternLakeCounty community for over 20 years, guided by the heart and hands of Senior Pastor Larry Bogenrief. He and his family are not only members of the community in which they live and work; they also care about the needs of those around them. They have a vision of 24\7 care, serving in times of disaster, as well as the day-to-day needs of the community. The Thanksgiving meal came about because they encountered people who were spending the holiday alone or isolated because they were house-bound. So, Willow Praise church wanted to reach out and let them know they were not alone. It was more about encouragement and connection than it was about food. And, that is still true to-

In 2014, they delivered hundreds of meals to shut-in's, local police and fire departments and two local apartment complexes. They also served hundreds of meals in their fellowship hall. "We set up our hall with individual tables, decorated for the holiday. We had volunteers escort them to the tables. They were served their choice of beverages, a complete hot meal of turkey and all the fixings. We even had a wide array of pies for dessert." said Laura Pistoor, Thanksgiving Coordinator. "We wanted our guests to feel special because, quite frankly, they are just that. Our goal is to love our neighbors - to truly love them. For us, it's not just words." This year, they are looking to expand their deliveries, to seek out those individuals that are shut-in, lonely and alone. They want to bring more people into their hall to be served with love. Also, there are many people that want to enjoy the company of others while eating. They are not shut-in's, per se, but have limited transportation. So Willow Praise is looking to serve those people in their local apartment complexes.

"None of this would be possible without the dedication of our remarkable and valued volunteers." said Pastor Larry, "The power of giving is an amazing way to truly embrace what Thanksgiving is all about. It transcends from 'just another holiday into an experience that connects us with our community in a personal way." In fact, those volunteers made it possible to serve over 830 Thanksgiving meals in 2014. And, to make it all happen, they cooked and carved 50 turkeys, peeled, mashed and cooked 300 pounds of potatoes, cooked and prepared 300 pounds of sweet potatoes, cooked 120 pounds of corn, dried and crumbled 500 rolls for stuffing, sliced 150 cans of cranberry sauce, made 20 gallons of gravy and used 40 pounds of butter. And, that does not even include beverages and dessert (they sliced over 70 pies).

They not only serve an outstanding Thanksgiving meal, but WillowPraise-Church also has a thrift store, Thrifty on the Vine, which sells everything from clothing to furniture. Free community meals are served every Tuesday at 5:30pm, as well as the 4th Sunday of the month at 12:30pm. And, the free Mobile Pantry is the 4th Saturday of every month from 10:00am -12:00pm (except during the Holidays).

Willow Praise is looking for people in WesternLakeCounty, as well as the Euclid area of CuyahogaCounty, that may need a meal for Thanksgiving. This includes apartment complexes that may have a large number of residents that want to eat together as a community. Of course, volunteers are always needed. Please call Willow-PraiseChurch at 440-944-5683 or vou can contact Laura Pistoor by calling 440-951-7008 or email LpistoorWP@gmail.com.

intricately linked. We need to work as partners to strengthen our community and our school system. As Mayor, I will meet regularly with the Superintendent and the School Board. I will advocate for changes in school funding at the state level to decrease dependence on local tax dollars. I will work to build strong neighborhoods and a new vision for Euclid, so that we can attract and retain families with children to stay in Euclid. Doing our part to improve the city overall should lead to less transiency in the schools. I will also work collaboratively with the Schools and local businesses to make sure we are developing partnership to create jobs and provide education our young residents need to succeed as our future workforce.

4. What plans do you have to strengthen the business environment in Euclid? I will make regular personal visits to our businesses, hold Business Round Table discussion, and institute a regular newsletter to businesses, real estate brokers, and economic development organizations. I will partner with County and Statewide economic development agencies to provide incentives to support new/ expanding businesses. I will work to improve our City processes to ensure Euclid is an easy place to start/expand a business. I will also work with the Chamber of Commerce to develop a business improvement districts and support small business growth and development. Providing quality customer service and responsiveness to businesses as well as residents will help strengthen our business environment as well.

5. Are you current on all real estate and city income tax responsibilities? Yes

6. What financial answer do you have to quarantee the future of Shore Cultural Cen-

Shore Cultural Centre is an asset to our community and is an important part of improving our vibrancy as a City. I will continue to develop the private/public partnership in place, work to seek grants and corporate funding to improve the building, and work cooperatively to ensure success. I will support additional community programs and opportunities at Shore to engage the community and provide opportunities to build a stronger sense of community. More involvement and more activities will translate into greater community support from the residents and users of Shore Cultural Centre.

7. What are your plans to strengthen the recreation programs? The City cannot do this alone. We will partner with the Euclid Schools, YMCA and community partners to provide quality programming and improved customer service to our residents. Euclid is fortunate to have volunteer groups like Euclid Boys League, Euclid Youth Soccer, Euclid Hockey, Panther Swim Team, etc. that help to provide quality programming in Euclid. I will work to improve those relationships, support their efforts, improve facilities, explore new program offerings based on resident wishes, and expand opportunities for all ages. Euclid is fortunate to have many parks and recreation amenities but we need to make general maintenance and cleanliness a priority. Partnerships and community involvement is a critical component of strengthening our programs.

10. How do you plan to pay for them?

Phase 2 of the Lakefront Plan will be paid for by a variety of sources including but not limited to funds from our Tax Increment Finance zone, multiple State grant funds, and hopefully County Casino funds (as recently introduced). We will continue to work with our consultants to identify and seek new funding sources to ensure Phase 2 can be built. I will seek a combination of grants, corporate sponsors, and city funds to compete the Visioning/Master Plan process.

apathy of leadership that believes we have achieved progress by simply managing the city's budget as an accounting problem instead of recognizing that real families in Euclid are suffering when we increase fees and taxes in the face of increasingly unsafe neighborhoods dotted with decaying homes. I want to destroy these weaknesses by creatively solving our problems so that once again hope and optimism can emerge in the city of Euclid.

3. What can you do as Mayor to help the Board of Education strengthen our schools? Although the Mayor of the City of Euclid is prohibited by law from controlling the operation of the Euclid City Schools (State Law gives that responsibility to your school board), the Mayor must provide moral leadership that moves the school district in the direction of achievement in the context of discipline and respect.

The Mayor should establish a mentoring program that encourages Euclid citizens to take Euclid students under their wing to create an understanding that students can only become mature adults by being held to a standard of coln Electric's New International Headquarters. hard work and self-respect on campus and at Euclid's location is also a strength because home. Euclid students can overcome problems of the untapped potential of Euclid's lakefront: at home if the rest of us in this community are willing to help. The Mayor has a moral responsibility to address these problems.

4. What plans do you have to strengthen the business environment in Euclid?

The Mayor must be the de facto Director of Economic Development in the City of Euclid. not be better situated for a new generation of The Mayor must have a sense of urgency that makes job creation Job One. I worked very hard in conjunction with the City Council to ensure 2. What do you see as the two greatest that Lincoln Electric built its new International Headquarters in the City of Euclid the last time

Euclid's economic decline is so severe that that Euclid will continue on a downward slide we can not effectively address the other prob lems facing our community until we reverse the job loss trend that has given us empty storefronts and vacant decrepit homes. Homeowners in Euclid deserve better.

5. Are you current on all real estate and city income tax responsibilities? Yes.

6. What financial answer do you have to guarantee the future of Shore Cultural Cen-

Shore Cultural Center has and continues to be a political football in the city because a separate permanent fund to protect this jewel has never been established. Not only do I intend to establish this permanent fund for operational purposes, I intend to introduce a plan for capital improvement that will allow us to be proud of the structural beauty of this facility for decades

7. What are your plans to strengthen the recreation programs?

Firstly, the operational budget of the recreation department has been ignored for several years. You can not provide modern recreation programs interesting and attractive for residents of all ages unless you are spending the money

The second problem involves inadequate capital funding. Have you seen the condition of Memorial Pool? It's another shameful example of the ways we have opened up our community to criticism. How about Willo Pool? I feel for the families in that neighborhood who had to endure the blazing heat while Willo Pool remained padlocked this past summer.

Euclid used to have a national reputation for the quality of its park and recreational facilities. These facilities are only a shadow of their old selves and you deserve better. This will change with the new Lynch administration.

8. How will you address the aging facilities such as pools and tennis courts?

This question was addressed in the previous response but suffice to say that putting economic development on the front burner of City Hall priorities will lead to new jobs so that the city has the funding to address the fact that our recreational facilities are second or third rate.

When it comes to recreation, we have to stop accepting mediocrity.

9. What will be your top two priorities when elected?

The absolute top priority must be economic development and job creation. As stated in the answer to the previous question, my platform is based on the idea of making job creation such a central theme that almost everything else takes a backseat.

This does not mean that other areas of concern will suffer. This means that other areas of concern will have the opportunity to be addressed even more effectively because job creation produces municipal revenue that is then available to solve other problems such as shortage of police officers and housing inspec-

Job creation is the engine room of the municipal locomotive. New job creation is like shoveling more coal into the engine to make it run faster, pulling along with it the various train cars that represent the other departments of the city. This, combined with reigniting and actually implementing lakefront development will change the currently downward trajectory of our community.

The second most important priority is that of safety. Put simply, we do not have enough police officers to control the crime activity exploding in our neighborhoods

There's a bank that I use in downtown Euclid that was robbed twice this summer within a 30 day period. And have you heard about the drive-by shooting on Nicholas Avenue the other evening? I'd love to be able to say that this kind of occurrence is rare but sadly it is not. This

10. How do you plan to pay for them?

I've been beating this drum about economic development throughout this questionnaire. It's obvious that problem-solving requires spending and the best way to generate that revenue is NOT to increase fees and raise taxes. It's by creating jobs that give us the capital to make Euclid better and at the same time restore our image as an engine for industry.

We can be that shining city on the hill that other communities look up to. Euclid can be great again.

Marcus Epps

1. What do you see as the two greatest strengths of Euclid?

Euclid is a great community. The community that raised me. So, to me, there are many strengths. If I had to say two in particular, i'd say that our geographical location is definitely an unutilized strength. Both our freeway access and our lakefront are crucial drivers of economic success for communities, yet we take minimal advantage of either of them at all.

Secondly, our diversity is a great asset, and strength. It always has been!

2. What do you see as the two greatest weaknesses of Euclid?

In my opinion our voting power in this community is a weakness for sure. But across this nation we have lost it. Politicians meet us, greet us and tag us by making us another line on a data entry report. Then they use the report to keep us roped in to their causes. Not our causes, but the causes that ultimately benefit their agenda, and even greater goal, re-election. We then vote the names we "know", and they continue to take care of the names they know, and regular folks are tired of getting left out the process. The "by the people" portion of the constitution has been hijacked, and in this race we have a shot at winning that back, by sending a strong message with a Vote for Epps, signalling that we all are tired of being left out the process.

3. What can you do as Mayor to help the Board of Education strengthen our schools? Strong schools are very important. Our schools have always had a reputation of excellence. However, even with the construction of our new schools, we dont see very good ratings. Doubling down on throwing money and new facilities at the problem is the last thing we need to do. Fostering in a new era of transparent leadership, we can work closely with the schools and its treasurer, who in the sun journal some years back stated there is financially, a lot of waste in our schools. I also would advocate for a dress code. One that enforces a tie for our young men of all ages. And you know what, with a full-time grant writer for all departments working in my administration, we will find grant dollars to help lower income families afford it. Im talking about reforms that make sense for everybody in the long run.

4. What plans do you have to strengthen the business environment in Euclid?

One of the very first things, after signing a pre written letter to the schools expressing our adminiatrations intent to pose to the voters of Euclid, a repel of the shared income tax at the next election (2016), will be to arrange a meeting with business leaders from all around Euclid. Coupling them by areas, we will meet and let them tell me personally, the mayor, the individual state of their businesses and what they are experiencing first hand. This is the first step in strengthening the business environment. I am a business broker and talk to business owners in Euclid everyday who all express a discontent with the relationship they have with city hall. This just cant happen. In todays society you have to have a go getter mentality. You have to go out and get new businesses. You have to make sure no other city can walk in any Euclid business, and offer something you have not already offered. This is what needs to be done and this is how you get it done.

5. Are you current on all real estate and city income tax responsibilities? Absolutely.

6. What financial answer do you have to quarantee the future of Shore Cultural Cen-

We have a great executive director at Shore now, employed by coral. Laura Kidder does a phenomenal job. However, she needs a partner. We have to make sure we are more responsive to her needs. What we can't do is tear down similar buildings we bought with taxpayer dollars (St. Roberts over $600k) and not salvage doors, etc. that could help restore Shore. When I am Mayor, I will hire a full-time grant writer, to be sure that there are no federal dollars we miss out on, in any aspect of our government. Shire will be well provided for. I also will look at the agreement between Euclid and Coral today. Privitization is good sometimes, and sometimes it's not. Under this administration we have just about privitized everything, and in my opinion all of these contracts need to be reevaluated.

7. What are your plans to strengthen the recreation programs?

The very first task of my newly hired, full-time grant writer will be to find Euclid the dollars to break ground on a state of the art, recreation and youth services center. This is a must. We can't keep making cuts in the recreation department and then complaining about our young people blanketing our streets and our library. Government has to effectively play its role in giving our kids something to do. Increasing senior services and recreation programs will be priority in an Epps administration.

8. How will you address the aging facilities such as pools and tennis courts?

Not to repeat myself, but this grant writer (possibly Kristal Grida who has already agreed) will be very busy. In my opinion, with a $70,000.00 benefit package, one should be. We have to preserve and properly upkeep all of our facilities. By my second year in office, most pools, tennis courts, etc. will be up and running and our kids will respect their own property, or lose the privilege, Period!

9. What will be your top two priorities when

In my first year as Mayor, we must end the shared income tax. Under our plan, working families recieve a 3 million dollar tax cut, and the city of Euclid receives a 3 million dollar increase in revenue. With us being 55 million dollars in debt, No candidate can talk about what they are going to do, until identifying how they are going to pay for it. I am the only candidate in this race who has done that

Secondly, we must increase our safety forces. It is important with increased crime in our community that we send a strong message to misguided young adults, and misbehaved teens, that we will not tolerate anything other than excellence in the city of Euclid. During budget hearings this year, the Mayor not only laid off firefighters, but announced they wouldn't be replacing retiring police officers either. Crime in Euclid the way it is today, regular folks don't understand this. We have to be strong when it comes to our safety forces. However, at the same time, be sure our officers have the training necessary to be effective community police officers in this diverse community. I will bring in folks from across America and the county to give a series of workshops on diversity sensitivity and fairness. We must police effectively, not over police. These are two things we will be sure to do in 2016

10. How do you plan to pay for them?

I think I have laid out plans to pay for every thing I propose and am willing to bet, I am the only candidate offering specifics to that effect. Enough of career politicians shoveling us the same old shit and calling it sugar. Let's vote Epps in this election, and actually get some real things done!

Fourth and Fifth Amendment Articles

Mr. Joshua Stephens' students in his College Credit Plus Course in Political Science have submitted articles that they have written regarding these two amendments. We here at the Euclid Observer are thrilled to have received submissions from these new writers, and look forward to seeing more of their work. Unfortunately, we couldn't choose which ones to print, so we are printing a snippet of each article with the full article available online at www.euclidobserver.com.

Teens with the Fourth and Fifth Amendment | By: Isiah Claytor

Teens in America are often unaware of their amendments and their rights. Many teens also are not fully clear on their rights. Most teens also do not know that their rights are restricted in many places. In school, teen's rights are restricted to a certain extent. If you are on school grounds, you or your car, can be searched if school officials suspect any criminal activity. School officials still need to have a good reason to search you; they cannot just go around searching people because somebody looks suspicious. It is your right as an American citizen to remain silent when questioned, and to not be searched without Teenagers should have less restrictions on their rights on school grounds. It is in the constitution for a reason. It is the rights of the people that everybody should have in life. In any other place in America, your rights are the same anywhere else. School officials should need a search warrant to search students. Teens should need a search warrant to be searched on school grounds, unless it is endangering to rest of the student body. If there are guns involved, the school officials can still search you if they have a reasonable excuse to search you for any deadly weapons. To receive a warrant, you must be caught red handed, or have a fair amount of complaints that you have illegal substances. In the case of New Jersey v. T.L.O (1985) when two teenagers were caught smoking weed by school officials. Since she was caught red handed, they had a very good reason to search the student.

Our 4th and 5th Amendment Rights | By: Brigette Armstrong

As stated in the Bill of rights we are entitled to certain unalienable rights. The two I will be discussing in this piece are the fourth and fifth amendments within court cases that involved teenagers. The fourth amendment is the right to not have search and seizure done without a warrant unless there is a reasonable cause for the search and seizure. This right is limited in public buildings at times such as schools. The Fifth Amendment protects you from self-incriminating yourself.

There was the Scott v. Harris case where the 19 year old driver was speeding, the officer clocked his speed in at 73 miles per hour in a 55 mile per hour zone, and when the police officer, Scott, tried to pull Harris over he sped up to an even more accelerated rate. Harris had started the chase, but Scott ended it by ramming into the back of Harris' vehicle. This left the driver paralyzed and they went to court because Harris felt that the police officer violated his 4th amendment right not to be seized without reason. The court decided that his rights were not being violated because the police officer had a reasonable cause, which was Harris' speeding due to the fact he was creating a dangerous environment for pedestrians.

Teens Have Rights That They Don't Even Know | By: Jessica Lisy

As teenagers where do we belong in this world? Do we classify ourselves as kids, adults, or that somewhere in between? Because of this confusion, rights of a teenager gets lost in the midst of all the confusion. The re Gualt 387 (1967) case defined rights of both adults and teenagers. Two minors were arrested for making a prank call. The arrest was very amature and unprofessional. So, his parents decided to take this case to the Supreme Court. Finally, the Supreme Court ruled that the boys under question, did not have the right to be charged as an adult. It was a landmark case that gave teens an understanding of these rights. Rights that to this day, are not well

Everyone in their youthful age is protected by the 4th amendment. This amendment protects us from unreasonable searches and seizures. This means that a police officer cannot just randomly pull you off the street and start going through your stuff. There has to be a perfectly good reason for the search. If you are running around showing off your weed. A police officer has the right to search you.

Know Your Fourth and Fifth Amendments | By: Abbie Dickerson

Many people living in the United States, are unaware of their Fourth and Fifth Amendment rights. The Fourth Amendment protects you against unreasonable search and seizures. This protection is extended to things such as your person, house, car, papers etc. Under this amendment, there must be a warrant issued, you must verbally consent, or there must be probable cause for a search to be carried out. Some situations included in probable cause are, if illegal contraband is in plain sight, or if a situation puts the police officer in immediate danger. Police are also legally able to carry out a search if the person is being arrested. Under the Fifth Amendment your right to not incriminate yourself, and your right to not be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law are protected. To make sure that you do not accidentally waive these rights you should take certain precautions. You SHOULD NOT answer any questions asked without having an attorney present, and you SHOULD exercise your right to remain silent. These rights can be very finicky and hard to deal with, so you must always stay calm, and be careful.

Teens and Fourth and Fifth Amendment Rights | By: Tianna Vanrossum

As an American we have many rights. We also have many laws we need to abide by and police officers are given certain powers and rules to enforce those laws. In this day and age, police officers have gotten caught going above and beyond the power they are designated. Officers often abuse and even go on to kill some of today's youth just because said officers know they have a portion of authority in our government. These situations often start off with an officer violating our human rights, particularly the rights granted by the Fourth and Fifth Amendments. I believe officers that do this sort of abusing have totally missed the fact that teenagers have the same rights as adults, when it comes to dealing with the law and its enforcers, despite the age of that person.

The Importance of Teaching the Constitutional Rights | By: Nia Gatewood

I sometimes wonder if we are ever forgetting about the things with the most serious of consequences. As I grow older, as my responsibilities expand, this becomes more and more apparent to me. A situation as little as a traffic stop could be incredibly damaging to my life if I do not know how to handle it in the correct manner. However, would the average person know what to do if stopped by the police? Moreover, would the average

Not many of us are very familiar with all of our constitutional rights. Generally, everyone knows about their first constitutional rights, those including the right to speech, press, religion and so on. Those are drilled into us at a young age. Nevertheless that is not enough to get by in the world we live in today. In my research I have come to understand that it is no one's responsibility to tell me my rights even in events where they are the most essential in helping me. This is unfortunate because that is what the rights were initially created for. I'm sure we all realize that a lot of people are mostly looking out for themselves, which is not completely selfish, but sadly can often cause misfortune for you. If you are not aware of the rights you have, authority figures are able to take advantage of your ignorance. Of them all, teenagers will be the biggest victims to this. As a result of our inexperience with the world and certain procedures we could come to encounter, teenagers may find themselves in more trouble than most.

Teen Rights | By: Zack Golden

Teens tend to have a misunderstanding of their rights when stopped by the police. First of all the Fourth Amendment requires that the police have a reasonable suspicion that a crime has been, is being, or is about to be committed before stopping a suspect. When stopped by the police, adults and teens alike have the right to remain silent. This right is the most important because it prevents you from saying anything that may incriminate yourself. The 4th amendment protects people from being searched or having their property taken away from them without any good reason. A police officer must have a warrant to search and seize your property. This ties into the right to remain silent because if you don't give your consent a police officer must get a warrant.

How the Fourth Amendment Helps Teens Who Are Stopped by the Police |

What are your rights when you are stopped by the police? Many teens are unsure. It is important that everyone knows their rights when stopped by the police, particularly the rights granted by the Fourth Amendment.

The Fourth Amendment prohibits unwarranted searches and seizures. This is important because it stops anyone from going through your belongings without reason. If an officer asks to search you or your property, you can decline their request. Having said that, if the officer has a warrant, you must allow him to search anything listed on it. In order to obtain a search warrant, the officer must have probable cause. However, if you are in school, this right is restricted. In school, police officers are allowed to search you without obtaining a warrant. In this case, they are allowed to search any private property in the schools if they have reasonable suspicion.

Rights of Teenagers | By: Ronchelle Marshall

The United States was founded on right. The main reason that America became America is that English subjects didn't want to be ruled by a king that didn't respect their rights. If you are a teenager being stopped by the police it is scary most of the time especially if it is at night. If a police officer stop you and ask you for your driver's license and your registration, you should give it to them and then ask if you did something wrong and wait for an answer. If the officer ask you to get out of the car, you get out and you close the car behind you. In my opinion if you are a teenager and a police officer pull you over and ask if they can search your car you said no and ask if they have a warrant. Teenager rights can be interrupted in different ways.

Your rights are limited in schools for example your rights to privacy is limited because you are on school property and your locker is the property of the school so the school can search it without your permission because it belongs to the school. The next thing you have to think about is what you say to the police because it is important. The police can use what you say to arrest you especially if you badmouth an officer they can search your car on the evidences that from your speech it sounds like you have been using illegal substances or that you are intoxicated. If it is so you just gave the police the right to arrest you because you were unage drinking or using illegal substances. If a police officer is following you with their siren on and you happen to be a teenager you need to listen to me to know exactly what to do.

The Fight for Our Rights | By: Celina Vuyancih

Being pulled over is a nerve-wracking thing. First you worry what you have done wrong. Then you fear that the officer may find something in your possession that could get you into unwanted trouble. Whether people know it or not, you have rights that will protect you from unlawful search or indictment if pulled over by the police. These rights fall under the Fourth and Fifth Amendments. They protect you from self-incrimination and from unreasonable searches and seizures. After researching several cases, I have collected three that pertain to these very rights and the ways you are permitted to use them to protect your well-being.

First, there is Bruce Edward Brendlin v. People of the State of California (2007). Brendlin and Simeroth were pulled over. The officer searched the vehicle after noticing Brendlin was inside. Simeroth and Brendlin were arrested after authorities discovered equipment used for production of methamphetamine. Brendlin was charged with possession of the illegal substance. He requested the evidence to be suppressed. The officer violated his Fourth Amendment right by unlawfully searching his car. The motion was denied. After hearing of the case, California's Supreme Court investigated and determined there was no reason to overturn it.

Teens and the 4th and 5th Amendments | By: Morgan Manning

Most teens do not seem too enthused about law, government, the constitution and the like unless they want to pursue a career in the field of law. If you were to hold a survey where you asked people about their rights and freedoms, many people would not know them word for word and under which amendment they'd fall and teens would probably do the same. They could tell you what rights and freedoms they possess, but not under which amendment. Some adolescents may question whether they really need to know their rights and freedoms specifically or just the general concept. If you asked the youth, they may not be able to tell you what rights the 4th and 5th Amendments grant you which worries me because of how important these amendments are, especially pertaining to teens.

The 4th Amendment prohibits unreasonable searches and seizures and require any warrant to be judicially sanctioned and supported by probable cause. This means that the police can pat you down, however they cannot frisk you unless they feel something suspicious. If you are stopped by the police for speeding, you do not have to consent to any searches, in fact it is advisable to deny consent unless you know for sure the vehicle you are in has no illegal substances.

Teens Rights According to the Fourth and Fifth Amendments | By: Jasmine Rollins

The Fourth Amendment states that the government (police) cannot search you or your property/belongings without your consent or without a warrant/reasonable cause for the search. The ultimate goal of this provision is to protect people's rights to privacy and freedom from arbitrary governmental intrusions.

A popular Supreme Court case involving these rights is Safford Unified School District v Redding (2009). A student reported another girl, Marissa, had given him prescription pills. Marissa was searched and was found with more pills and weapons. She said everything was Redding's, and she was then searched, even inside her undergarments! Redding sued the school for violating her Fourth Amendment. The strip search was ruled illegal.

What rights do you have when you are pulled over by the police?

What do you do when you get pulled over by a police officer? Teens may not understand what rights everyone has in this situation. When you first get pulled over, the officer will explain why they have pulled you over. One of your main rights is the right to remain silent. If the officer asks you "Do you know how fast you were going," you don't have to respond. Your silence won't be used against you in court. Always do as the officer tells you, do not argue with him/her that will only make the situation worse. The officer may not tell you before, that you can refuse a search under your fourth amendment right Knowing your rights is very important especially when it involves the law.

The Supreme Court has dealt with cases involving the fourth and Fifth Amendment rights. One case is Salinas V. Texas (2013). Genovevo Salinas was accused of murdering two men. The police went to his parents' house and took Salinas in for questioning. But before they took Salinas for questioning, his father gave the police Salinas's shotgun. The police didn't read off the Miranda warning, which wasn't required since he wasn't in custody. Salinas didn't say anything when the police asked him, "if the shotgun would match the shells recovered at the scene of the murder." The government used Salinas silence against him and found him guilty. This violated the fourth amendment right that says your silence will not be used against you in court.

Were you given an opportunity to learn the best way to deal with an officer?

Unlike in schools, teens have the equal amount of rights as an adult in the situation of a traffic stop. I do not see any room for improvement in the rights that us as citizens have when being pulled over. We have almost complete control of how a traffic stop will go unless it is at the fault of an officer for going wrong. As long as the person being pulled over has an idea of their rights, there is little possibility it will go poorly or turn into something more serious like arrest or a more expensive ticket. Some of this knowledge that the average citizen deserves to know is not normally taught in schools or part of a common curriculum. Teenagers new to driving and even adults who were not completely exposed to all of their rights deserve to get a proper education of how to deal with a traffic stop properly. Even the most common right, the right to remain silent, is extremely under used. Although we have rights that we can apply to traffic stops in effort to protect ourselves, Police officers often overstep their boundaries. In a recent case Sandra Bland v. Dylan Roof (2015) is an example of both fault of the citizen, and of authority. Although Bland exercised her rights, the officer abused his own which then led to anger and aggression by both of them, leaving them both at fault for why this case was so extended.

Right to Privacy Opinion Statement | By: Dustin Geiger

I think that the Fourth and Fifth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution are necessary and important to our form of government, especially in the case of teens, however there are some inevitable problems with the system, humans being humans. As far as the Fourth Amendment goes, on the civilian side, it is all about saying the right things to get yourself out of trouble or to make yourself look innocent, rather than just being guilty if you are guilty and innocent if you are innocent. On the side of the police force, they can either suspect a person of being guilty but then go too far in their search and violate that person's Fourth Amendment rights, or, on the other end of the spectrum, they may do too little and let criminals get away because of their rights. It's a very fine line between the freedom people have a right to and the security people need in order to live safely. In the case of a police officer finding that someone is guilty but doing it the wrong way (i.e. by way of an unreasonable search and seizure), in the eyes of a lot of people the guilty person is somehow less guilty. My opinion is that the hypothetical cop is clearly at fault for their mistake of law or for being contrary to the law they are supposed to be enforcing, but the criminal is guilty too, for committing a crime.

Class Dojo

Class Dojo is a great way for teachers and students to stay connected about student behavior and more!

By Abby Juhasz

How Class Dojo works is if you go online to http://classdojo.com you can see if your child is getting positive or needs improvement points. Some ways you can get points are by being bucket fillers, on task, and hallway behavior. If you have the most points in your class, you get a house colored shirt and you get to wear it on every Friday with jeans. You can take pictures of students being good and you can send messages of how the child is behaving to their parents. The teacher can message parents or you can message the teacher the same way.

Animal Ambassadors

Today we witnessed the bearded dragon, hedgehog, arctic fox, joey kangaroo, and snake. The dragon was very unique, and lives in desserts, the hedgehog could be found underground, the artic fox is most likely in antarctica, the kangaroo could be found in Australia, and last the snake could be found in foreign jungles.

Today Animal Ambassadors came to our school and show us some amazing animals and some interesting facts about the animals. We also took some pictures and that's

Merici Center Resource Room:

A Resource Room has been designated in the Merici Center, the building to the north of the school. Two days each week it serves as the home of the Enrichment Program. In this program, identified gifted students work on solving complex learning problems including computer coding. As an added bonus, SRW has ensured that this teacher has time in her schedule to work collaboratively with the classroom teachers to offer STREAM units of learning to every student in each grade level. The Resource Room is also available two days each week to provide students with a space in which they can do homework, catch up on work due to absences, study for upcoming tests, use technology that may not be available at home, etc. all under the guidance and direction of certified teachers.

Recycling in Full Swing:

Last May we dedicated our new playground. Funds for this capital improvement came from community partners, school fundraisers, and our inaugural Walk-a-Thon which raised $16,000. To add to the beauty of this area, SRW's Parent Association worked in collaboration with Girl Scout Troop #1570 to encourage recycling. 1,451 pounds of plastic caps were collected and delivered to a company in Indiana in exchange for an 8 foot picnic table. As an added bonus, the Girl Scouts purchased a trash receptacle that matches the table. This project earned the Scouts an environmental badge and the parish a wonderful place for families to gather!

Bishop Lennon celebrates Opening Mass

"We invite everyone to raise your voices today as we sing in celebration of this joyous moment and in hopeful prayer for a successful year," said VASJ Peer Minister Cori Carr '16 during her introduction at Opening Mass held in the school's gymnasium in September.

The theme selected by VASJ's Peer Ministers for the Mass was "Start the Fire." The theme was chosen to encourage students to ignite a fire within themselves each time they come to pray together – a fire that inspires students to sing along and clap their hands to the music during Mass and as a result, spread joy to everyone around

The careful thought and consideration VASJ's Peer Ministers put into the selection of the music for the Mass with hopes of "starting the fire" among their classmates paid off the gym was truly vibrant.

With help from the talents of Our Lady of the Lake's Music Director Melissa Gali-Bird, it was an energetic and beautiful Opening Mass celebrated by Bishop Richard Lennon.

"I've been coming here for a number of years now and I look forward to it each year," said Bishop

Four seniors (Katie Raddell, Cynthia Negrete, Erin Maher and Joseph Tromba) and one staff member (Director of Community Outreach Kevin Flynt '70) answered the call and were commissioned by Bishop Lennon as Extraordinary Ministers of the Eucharist.

"Today is a special Mass," said Cori. "Not only is it our prayer for God's blessing on the new school year, but this morning we will be installing new Eucharistic Ministers who will help serve our school through this

Fr. Fortuna Keynote at Bishop Baraga Event

Father Joseph Fortuna of Our Lady of the Lake Parish was the keynote speaker at last month's Bishop Baraga Days banquet at St Mary's Catholic Church in Collinwood. His speech, which reflected on similarities between Bishop Barraga's life and work, and the teachings of our current Pope Francis, was enthusiastically received by the more than 500 people in attendance.

"It was an honor to have the opportunity to speak to such a tremendous gathering, and to reflect on the life of a remarkable man who made great contributions to our Catholic community," says Fr. Fortuna. Bishop Baraga is recognized as one of the greatest Slovenian missionaries to the US, and the convocation in his name draws visitors from across the county, as well as

Mark Your Calendar - Vote Tuesday, Nov. 3, 2015!

Dear Euclid Voter:

Thank you for your interest in the race for Mayor of Euclid. You have the power to determine who will lead our city into the future.

Please use that special power of the vote by returning me to the Mayor's seat in Euclid.

Euclid has gone downhill a lot since I was last Mayor.

Our taxes are up. – Our services are down. – Crime is up. – Home values are down.

Euclid city Council has approved a 30% increase in your water bill: can you afford that?

And what about lakefront development? Where's the marina you were promised 10 years ago?

Look, Euclid is at a tipping point. Do we fix it or do we just give up and reinstall the same do-nothing leaders that play the violin while Rome burns?

Let's fill the industrial corridor of Euclid with jobs again so we can remove the burden from you the overtaxed homeowner.

Listen folks, Euclid can be great again, but we have to face the problems instead of papering over them with fee increases. Charging you for trash pickup and for street lighting balances the budget but also makes Euclid less attractive as a place to live. We need to attract families living in homes that constitute the investment they own and love.

The first Lynch revolution chased the corrupt politicians out of town.

It's time for the second Lynch revolution to revitalize a city government dripping with apathy and indifference to what it's like to live here.

Please help make Euclid great again and vote for me to be the next Mayor of Euclid. And, check out our website: LynchForMayor.com

Gratefully and humbly,
