

POD Institute for New Faculty Developers

29 July 2019 - 2 August 2019
Greensboro, North Carolina, USA

The POD Network sponsors the Institute for New Faculty Developers (INFD) to mentor new practitioners and facilitate excellence in practice among its members. The primary audience is persons in the early years of educational development roles.

Institute Theme: Inclusive Critical Practice

Now is the time to look at our inclusive future. The 2019 INFD embraces the history of the field of educational development in higher education with a focus on our inclusive future. Participants will attend sessions on practical application with a focus on emerging inclusive best practices and technology. Each session is geared at building skills in educational development from consulting to event planning and beyond.

Participants will reflect on their own critical practices, have the opportunity to network with colleagues, create mentoring relationships with dedicated practitioners, and develop a program action plan to take back to their campus.

The event includes a reception at the International Civil Rights Center & Museum, site of the first Woolworth Sit-ins, sparking a movement across the United States.

register at: <http://utlc.uncg.edu/infd>

UNC
GREENSBORO

pod
NETWORK