

Victor Trillo is an Assistant Vice President and Network Infrastructure Manager at Ocean Bank. Victor Trillo is a professional in the banking industry with extensive experience in managing and implementing rigorous data security systems. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree with a major in Computational Mathematics awarded by the City University of New York. He is also certified in security products including Check Point firewalls and Cisco devices. Last year Victor completed his CSTA in Ethical Hacking as well.

Victor Trillo began his career as a programmer analyst. He was responsible for the design and implementation of custom made business applications. Before moving to South Florida Victor worked for a major Citrix and Check Point reseller in New York City to focus on networking and infrastructure implementations. He developed extensive experience in LAN/WAN and Internet technologies. Recently he managed the deployment and implementation of high end projects including Citrix XenApp and XenDesktop virtual Apps, NetApp storage systems, Check Point firewalls and Cisco products.