By Eryn Brown

WASHINGTON — President Obama and House Speaker John Boehner are set to meet Tuesday and try one last time to pour cold water on the debt ceiling crisis.

The president is expected to tell Boehner and other House leaders that they must pass a bill to raise the debt limit by a short stretch — $900 billion — in exchange for spending cuts that would save $700 billion over 10 years.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.

The House has already agreed to a $2.4 trillion deficit reduction plan, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Lawmakers are expected to vote on the debt ceiling bill this week.

The White House says it's time for the lawmakers to stop playing political games over raising the debt ceiling and to get to work on a deficit reduction plan.