

CATOCTIN CREEK

W A T E R S H E D

AMERICAN GIN

While gins can be all over the map these days, Watershed Gin comes across with clear focus. It's incredibly balanced with a beautiful juniper nose and taste, and practically no alcohol harshness. London Dry with a Virginia accent.

TASTING NOTES:

A spicy, woody and soft aroma. Licorice and anise are full-on in the first taste and big in the finish. Soft juniper. A good mouthfeel and full body.

46% ALC. BY VOL.

Gold Medal Winner and 91 Points Scored at the Beverage Testing Institute 2016. Silver Medal Winner at the New York International Spirits Competition 2011.

CATOCIN CREEK

TRUE CRAFT INSPIRED BY TRADITION

Becky Harris is a Chemical Engineer and Chief Distiller at Catocin Creek Distillery. In 2009, she and her husband, Scott Harris, combined their engineering and business backgrounds to build a distillery focused on creating the finest Virginia Rye Whisky from grain to glass. Her passion is creating award-winning rye whisky, unique gin expressions, and locally-sourced brandies of the highest quality, with an emphasis on local and organic sourcing of grain, fruit and herbs. Catocin Creek has been featured in numerous publications including the New York Times, Washington Post, Jim Murray's Whisky Bible, and Whisky Advocate. The Daily Beast, Forbes, and Men's Journal have highlighted the distillery as an example of great American craft distilleries making whisky from scratch.
