ABOUT GRADIS'CIUTTA

In northeastern Italy, there is a group of hills known as Collio, where Gradis'ciutta can be found. Before it was named Gradis'ciutta, the vineyard was known as Mosvini, which means “Mount of Wine” in Latin. Living up to its original name, today the area is synonymous with high-quality white wines. At Gradis'ciutta, Collio's unique terroir is reflected in the outstanding wines produced—both indigenous and international varietals. A family-owned winery, all of their winemaking practices embody a deep care and respect for the land.

THE WINE

- 100% Friulano, a grape with its first mention in historical documents back in 1632
- Perfumes range from tempting spicy notes to sweet, floral and fruity
- Intense and spicy flavors of hay, almond, dried flowers, and ripe golden apples
- Perfect as an aperitif with anipasti and prosciutto crudo as well as baked and marinated fish
