What’s great about Skillcrush in terms of inclusion & belonging?

Response rate: 17/25

In general, lots of comments about our efforts to talk about important issues, take them seriously, and “walk the walk” in terms of donating, taking action to improve, etc.

What’s not so great about Skillcrush in terms of inclusion & belonging?

Response rate: 16/25

There were, of course, many comments about a desire to hire more diverse team members at Skillcrush. There were also requests for more diversity & inclusion training among the staff.

Diversifying our team, especially our Management team, is a high priority at Skillcrush.
As a small organization that only plans to hire 1-2 full-time team members this year, that goal will take time. In the meantime, we want to look for other ways we can add diverse voices to our team without hiring non-essential workers that might be at risk of layoff in the future. (For example, it’s possible for us to more quickly hire freelance writers or subject matter experts as paid contractors.)

Do you have any ideas you wish to share on this topic?

Response rate: 12/25

Most responses support the idea of not filling the positions we do hire until we find qualified candidates of color, and that adding a BIPOC to the management team should be a priority.

Do you have any other ideas for ways Skillcrush can be actively anti-racist?

Response rate: 14/25

Lots of good ideas here! The most common theme was around a desire to create more education opportunities for staff around anti-racism.

EMPLOYEE SATISFACTION

How happy are you working at Skillcrush? (1 = very unhappy, 10 = very happy)

Response rate: 23/25

92% rated a 9, 8% skipped this question.

How likely is it that you would recommend working at Skillcrush to a friend or colleague? (1 = not likely, 10 = shout from the mountain tops)

Response rate: 23/25

92% rated a 9, 8% skipped this question.
This question is a standard one that works similar to NPS and is used across industries to benchmark employee engagement. It’s calculated by subtracting “detractors” from “promoters” but, since all of our scores are 9s, there’s no calculation to do.

This means our NPS for employees is 92%.

This is an absurdly high score, as most companies score between 10-30%. Companies that score above 50% are considered to have very happy employees.

We’ll probably continue to track this to make sure it doesn’t change but won’t put much emphasis on it because the score is so high that it doesn’t tell us much.

Is there anything else you'd like to tell us in addition to your answers above? We'd love to hear anything you'd like to share!

Lots of positive comments here! People appreciate our values, positive culture, and our willingness to take action on DEI like this survey.
