Overview

It is no secret that having a good marriage requires a lot of work! Our culture likes to take this knowledge and make it seem like having to work on a marriage means you must have married the wrong person. This simply isn't true! Having to work hard at something doesn't make it automatically bad! This is especially true in a marriage. In fact, the kind of work required for a healthy and happy marriage is actually really rewarding and even fun. In other words, the benefits are genuinely worth the effort!

On this episode, Pastors Jimmy and Kim talk about how after 33 years of being married, they are continuing to work at building their "Us" and establishing fresh vision for their marriage! From learning how the unity of a marriage doesn't erase individuality, but rather accentuate it, to recognizing that we are fully complete in Jesus, to utilizing a vision journal to keep leaning into what god is calling us into through marriage this episode is full of encouraging, practical, and timely wisdom. We promise you're going to love it!
