Teakdecking Systems brings European distribution in-house to enhance customer support and service

Teakdecking Systems (TDS), the global leader in marine decking solutions and maintenance products, is pleased to announce a strategic shift in its European operations. Effective immediately, TDS will now manage all deck maintenance products distribution activities across Europe directly. This strategic move strengthens TDS's ability to support its European clients with faster service, greater product availability, and direct access to the company's full expertise.

This transition marks the end of the company's use of a single European master distributor model. TDS will now appoint a network of regional distributors across Europe, enabling more localized service and stronger support for marine professionals throughout the continent.

"This change reflects our commitment to being closer to our customers and delivering the highest standard of service across Europe," said Richard Strauss, CEO of Teakdecking Systems. "By managing distribution directly and building a strong network of regional partners, we can better meet the needs of boatbuilders, refit yards, and marine professionals."

TDS's European operation will now directly provide:

- Proprietary caulking, ECO cleaners, epoxies, sealers and professional tools
- Expert technical support and product guidance
- Fast, responsive logistics from its Spanish facility
