Solstice Docking Solutions, the U.S. leader behind the SeaPen Dry Dock system, continues its strategic expansion with the addition of Josh Gill as Florida Regional Sales Representative.

Based in Panama City, FL, Gill brings more than two decades of experience across the marine sector, including wetland science, boat rentals, charter services, and high-end new boat sales and yacht brokerage. Most recently, he represented one of Florida's premier dealerships, where he built a reputation for white-glove customer service and strong industry relationships.

"Josh's background gives him a unique 360° perspective—from running a business on the water to selling premium vessels in the showroom," said Craig Freeman, Director of Solstice Docking. "His professionalism and deep Florida roots make him a natural fit for the SeaPen team as we continue growing our presence throughout the state."

Known for his personable approach and passion for boating, Gill is already engaging with customers across the region. His hands-on experience and local insight will further strengthen Solstice Docking's mission to deliver high-quality, in-water dry dock solutions tailored to the lifestyle of modern boaters.
