BPS Marine and E&P Marine Announce Strategic Global Partnership

BPS Marine, a leader in advanced ultrasonic antifouling technology, is excited to announce a new strategic partnership with E&P Marine.

E&P Marine (epmarine.com) is a global manufacturer's representative firm specializing in B2B marine export, OEM sales, and aftermarket distribution. Founded in 1980, the company represents a dynamic portfolio of premier marine brands across 80+ global markets, including Latin America, Europe, and an expanding domestic presence throughout the USA. E&P Marine provides strategic market expertise, technical support, and logistical management to drive growth for its manufacturing partners worldwide.

This new alliance appoints E&P Marine as the official worldwide representative for BPS Marine's complete range of ultrasonic antifouling solutions. The collaboration is set to significantly expand the global footprint of both companies, opening up new opportunities and strengthening their presence in key international and domestic marine markets.

"We are proud to appoint E&P Marine (www.epmarine.com) as our global sales partner," said Andreas Schulz, CEO of BPS Marine. "E&P Marine is a worldwide manufacturer representative of premium marine brands, recognized for their innovation, expertise, and strong international network. Our joint presence underscores our commitment to delivering exceptional technology and service globally to the B2B marine sector."

This collaboration seamlessly blends BPS Marine's innovative technology with E&P Marine's vast, established global network. By utilizing E&P Marine's deep market expertise, customers around the world will now have access to unparalleled sales and technical support for all of BPS Marine's advanced antifouling systems. This ensures that clients receive not just a cutting-edge product, but also the expert guidance and service to back it up.

While the agreement is global in scope This targeted expansion is designed to provide distributors, dealers, and boatbuilders throughout this high-growth region with direct, streamlined access to BPS Marine's cutting-edge technology. E&P Marine's local presence and expert team will be instrumental in supporting these new and existing B2B relationships.
