“A Good Day for California Citizens”

CAOC applauds decision backing commission’s legislative lines.

SACRAMENTO (Jan. 27, 2012) – Niall McCarthy, president of Consumer Attorneys of California, issued the following statement about the California Supreme Court decision that retains the legislative district lines adopted by a 14-member citizens commission on redistricting.

“I want to applaud the state Supreme Court for seeing through the political fog and coming down on the side of the average Californian with this morning’s decision. Love them or hate them, these district lines were the end product of a long and painstaking process designed to be free of political horse trading and conducted by a group of hard-working California residents who answered the call to help do the right thing for their state. In short, this is a good day for the 99% of Californians who too often feel that their voices are not heard, let alone heeded. This is a good day for California citizens.”

Consumer Attorneys of California is a professional organization of plaintiffs’ attorneys representing consumers seeking accountability against wrongdoers in cases involving personal injury, product liability, environmental degradation and other causes.
