CAOC President Lee Harris speaks out against forced separation of immigrant children from parents

Calls the current policy "outrageous and un-American"

SACRAMENTO (June 20, 2018) – Consumer Attorneys of California President Lee S. Harris has the following comment on the current immigration crisis:

“Some things are just wrong. Our federal government is engaged in a new immigration policy of separating children from their parents. Consumer attorneys fight every day to help families heal from tragic family losses. Watching our government intentionally inflict this pain on parents and children violates the most basic values that we fight to uphold. It is outrageous and un-American. We ask all fair-minded legislators to speak out against forced separation of children from their parents and to enact legislation to permanently end the program. America deserves no less.”

Consumer Attorneys of California is a professional organization of plaintiffs' attorneys representing consumers seeking accountability against wrongdoers in cases involving personal injury, product liability, environmental degradation and other causes.
