Attorneys Host Free Legal Seminar for Windsor Residents
Colorado Trial Lawyers Association to Provide Legal Advice to Victims of the Recent Tornado

June 12, 2008 (Denver, Colorado) – As part of the Trial Lawyers Care Community Outreach Program, members of the Colorado Trial Lawyers Association (CTLA) are hosting a free legal advice clinic on Saturday, June 21 from 10:00 am to 2:00 pm at the Windsor Recreation Center.

CTLA attorneys, specializing in homeowners, property/casualty and insurance law, will be on hand to provide free legal advice for Windsor residents affected by the recent tornado. Residents are encouraged to drop in and meet with CTLA attorneys to discuss questions they may have about their insurance claims.

“We know this is a very stressful time for residents affected by the tornado, and we want to help people navigate through the rebuilding process,” said John Sadwith, Executive Director of the Colorado Trial Lawyers Association. “Insurance claims can be confusing, and we want to make sure residents are given honest and accurate advice on issues pertaining to their claims,” Sadwith added.
