CTLA's "Simple Solutions for Success in Brain Injury Cases" Seminar Provides Detailed Information to Make Critical Case Decisions

November 3, 2009 (Denver, Colorado) – The Colorado Trial Lawyers Association (CTLA), the largest specialty bar association in the state, presents "Simple Solutions for Success in Brain Injury Cases," a seminar featuring presentations by the most sought after medical and legal experts on Friday, Nov. 20 in Denver.

During this seminar, Anwer Sheikh, M.D., a nationally recognized radiologist, explains imaging techniques for traumatic brain injuries. He plans to review everything an attorney should know about brain imaging in terms of the X-ray, CT, MRI, f-MRI, EEG, QEEG, PET, SPECT and DTI. Dr. Sheikh serves on staff at Georgetown University Hospital, Washington Hospital Center and Marshfield Hospital.

Other guest speakers include Paul Richards, Ph.D. who will discuss controversies involving brain injury and symptom validity testing. John Smith, P.E., president of Raymond P. Smith & Associates, will give a presentation on biodynamics; T. Thomas Metier, managing partner and president of the Metier Law Firm, will show registrants how to put the case together and much more.

CTLA has applied for eight continuing legal education (CLE) credits. Larry Lee of Larry D. Lee Law PC and Gregory Gold from the Gold Law Firm serve as seminar co-chairs. "I want participants to walk away with the knowledge and skills to visibly show a jury the diagnosis of a traumatic brain injury in relation to their client," explained Gold.

Registration prices for "Simple Solutions for Success in Brain Injury Cases" are $199 for CTLA attorney members; $139 for CTLA legal staff members; $269 for non-members; and $70 for full-time judges and students. To register, call CTLA at (303) 831-1192 or visit www.ctlanet.org.
