

Update for May 1, 2020

Justices, Judges, Circuit Court Clerks and Kentucky Court of Justice Personnel:

Reopening Task Forces will prepare courts to resume limited in-person services

As Kentucky begins to gradually reopen business, the courts must prepare to do the same. Although in-person services are suspended until May 31, our next priority must be a reopening plan that respects social distancing while allowing greater access to the courts. Please note that this will be a limited, phased approach to ensure the health and safety of our court family and the public.

There will be three task forces, one each for Circuit, Family and District courts. Deputy Chief Justice Lisabeth Hughes will chair the Circuit Court Task Force, Justice Debra Lambert will chair the Family Court Task Force and Justice Michelle Keller will chair the District Court Task Force. This is an unprecedented challenge and I appreciate their willingness to lead our efforts.

I also appreciate the many judges and circuit court clerks who have agreed to serve on the task forces. The full list of members is below and we encourage other judges, circuit clerks and court personnel to reach out to the representatives from their respective region with any thoughts and ideas on how best to reopen our courts. When making recommendations, please consider how we can handle the traffic flow in court facilities to minimize lines in the Offices of Circuit Court Clerk and avoid large crowds in courtrooms. We're all in this together and we welcome your suggestions.
