Phillip maintains an active practice in Nashville in addition to consulting nationally as a deposition/trial strategist. His innovative approaches and case strategy work, including techniques like the “Miller Mousetrap” have earned him recognition among trial lawyers nationally. Although Phillip’s calendar is full doing deposition/case strategy and focus groups for other firms and managing his own case load, he is also enrolled at Baylor Law School as an LLM candidate in Litigation Management. Phillip is AV rated and he has been repeatedly certified as a Civil Trial Specialist, and as a Super Lawyer.

Phillip has written and co-authored 2 books (with his friend, Paul Scoptur): Advanced Deposition Strategy and Practice released by Trial Guides in July 2013; and Focus Groups – Hitting the Bullseye published by AAJ Press in January 2017. He is also a contributing author to Anatomy of a Personal Injury Lawsuit, released by Trial Guides in 2015 and has been published in Trial magazine more than 8 times. He says two other books are in the works, stay tuned.
