MAJ Announces 2018 Legislative Endorsements

LANSING — The Michigan Association for Justice (MAJ) today announced its 2018 legislative candidate endorsements.

Endorsements were based on voting records for incumbents and a comprehensive candidate questionnaire. All candidates for Michigan House and Senate, regardless of party, were invited to return a questionnaire and apply for an endorsement.

A list of MAJ legislative endorsements is available here.

“For nearly a decade, an anti-civil justice majority has had complete control of our state government,” said MAJ President Debra A. Freid. “They have waged an unmitigated assault on citizens’ rights in every area of the law including the fundamental right to a civil trial by jury. We are proud to endorse a slate of candidates who will fight to balance the scales of justice in Michigan and protect and restore the rights of those abused or injured by others.”

Statewide candidates endorsed by MAJ (previously announced) are:

- Gretchen Whitmer, Governor
- Jocelyn Benson, Secretary of State
- Dana Nessel, Attorney General
- Sam Bagenstos, Supreme Court
- Megan Cavanagh, Supreme Court
- University of Michigan Board of Regents, Jordan Acker
