Michigan Association for Justice Announces 2016 Judicial Endorsements

LANSING — The Michigan Association for Justice (MAJ) today announced its 2016 judicial candidate endorsements.

“The 7th Amendment of the United States Constitution grants every American the right to a civil trial by jury,” said MAJ President Thomas W. Waun. “Michigan citizens deserve a level playing field in Michigan courtrooms, especially when going up against the most powerful interests. We are proud to endorse a group of outstanding, well-qualified men and women whose past work and core values demonstrate their commitment to a fair and open justice system in Michigan.”

MAJ 2016 judicial endorsements are:

Justice of Supreme Court: Judge Deborah A. Thomas

1st District Judge of Court of Appeals: Judge Cynthia Diane Stephens

3rd Circuit Judge of Circuit Court (Wayne Co.) – Incumbent: Judge Mark Slavens

3rd Circuit Judge of Circuit Court (Wayne Co.) – Non-Incumbent: Regina Thomas, Brian Morrow, and Robert Ficano

6th Circuit Judge of Circuit Court (Oakland Co.) – Non-Incumbent: Victoria Valentine

16th Circuit Judge of Circuit Court (Macomb Co.) – Non-Incumbent: Michael Servitto

52nd District, 1st Division Judge of District Court (Western Oakland Co.) – Incumbent: Judge David Law

60th District Judge of District Court (Muskegon Co.) – Non-Incumbent: Geoffrey Nolan

MAJ today also endorsed two non-judicial candidates:

Oakland County Clerk/Register of Deeds: Lisa Brown

Member of the State Board of Education: John Austin
