NASHVILLE BAR ASSOCIATION ENDORSES ALPS AS ITS LAWYERS' MALPRACTICE INSURANCE CARRIER FOR MEMBERS

Nashville, TN – On September 1, 2018, the Nashville Bar Association (“NBA”) announced it has endorsed ALPS Lawyers’ Professional Liability Insurance. Understanding the importance of malpractice insurance to lawyers in private practice, both to protect lawyer assets and their clients, the NBA is partnering with ALPS based on its proven customer service, financial stability, quality policy coverage and commitment to educating Nashville lawyers to become better practitioners through loss prevention activities.

“ALPS is recognized as an industry-leader when it comes to providing malpractice insurance, particularly to small firms and solo practitioners,” said Monica Mackie, Executive Director of the NBA. “ALPS understands bar associations and, most importantly, will be an excellent service provider to our members. This should prove to be an excellent member benefit for NBA members,” added Mackie.

The endorsement of ALPS directly benefits NBA members who are eligible for a 10% premium credit towards their malpractice insurance. In addition, ALPS has already begun its Bar collaboration, with Business Development Representative, Derek Smith, set to attend the NBA’s upcoming Annual Member Picnic on September 27, where he will be available to answer questions about ALPS and the partnership.

“Nashville lawyers are excellent attorneys, and that bond is tethered to NBA’s commitment to foster a culture of professionalism and collegiality within the greater Nashville legal community. A partnership with the NBA makes good sense,” said Chris Newbold, Executive Vice President of ALPS. “Our goal is to provide NBA members a quality product that has the potential to save them time and money, and ALPS is committed to be a strong partner of the NBA as they pursue their important mission,” added Newbold.
