While NBA dues, membership directories, and practice area listing charges may be deductible as a business expense, these charges are not deductible as charitable contributions for federal income tax purposes. However, contributions to the Nashville Bar Foundation are fully deductible as a charitable contribution. The NBA estimates that 1% of your dues are allocable to non-deductible lobbying expenditures. Therefore, 99% of your dues are deductible to the full extent provided by law. Up to $25 of dues will go towards publication cost of the Nashville Bar Journal.

I verify that all information contained in this membership dues form is correct. It is my responsibility to keep the NBA notified of any changes. I further understand that my listing in the annual Attorney Directory is printed with the information supplied to the NBA.
