Practice and Service Committees

The OCBA's committees keep members informed of significant changes in their areas of practice and shape association policy on issues of professional concern. Committees meet monthly to discuss developments within substantive areas of the law and react to or suggest changes to improve the legal system. Networking, helpful ideas from fellow attorneys and updates in your area of law practice are a few of the benefits derived from committee participation. More information about each committee can be found at www.ocba.org.
