WATER MAIN BREAK FORCES CLOSURE OF KNOXVILLE SUPREME COURT BUILDING

Nashville, Tenn. - The Knoxville offices of the Tennessee Supreme and Appellate courts and clerk will be closed until Monday, January 13 because of a water main break outside the court building on Main Street.

The building requires a water supply to heat the space and repairs are expected to take several days. Because of this, the Supreme Court has ordered the Knoxville Appellate Court Clerks Office closed until Monday, January 13, 2014. The deadline for any documents due Thursday, January 9 or Friday, January 10 will be extended until Monday, January 13.
