

Andy Vickery • Houston

For nearly 20 years, Andy's primary focus has been on national drug litigation, initially representing families against producers of SSRI antidepressant drugs regarding failure to warn claims about violence and suicide. Today, his main focus is on pernicious side effects from Abbott's multibillion dollar medication "Humira." In addition to SSRI cases, The Vickery Law Firm's drug litigation practice now includes cases involving drug injuries and medical device malfunctions.

In 1997, Andy was invited to join the American Board of Trial Advocates (ABOTA), one of the few organizations in the legal profession that you can't simply join; you have to be invited by your peers. Andy's rank of "Advocate" means that, as of that time, he has tried in excess of 50 jury cases through to verdict. Vickery graduated from Trial Lawyers College in 2002, and now serves on the faculty of the College.

Vickery is proud to be a trial lawyer. For the majority of his career, he has had the honor and privilege of representing families who have lost a loved one, people who have been injured, and small business owners who have been victimized by predatory competitors.
